What is Freelancer.com?

Freelancer.com is an online job marketplace that provides a means for clients and freelancers around the globe to collaborate for mutual benefit. Individuals or businesses in need of skilled help for short or long-term projects can post those projects and allow freelancers to submit bids for the completion of the work.

For the client or service buyer, Freelancer.com provides immediate access to thousands of independent contractors with specific skills, without the need to place job ads or provide work space, insurance, etc. For the freelancer or service provider, Freelancer.com offers a constant source of part-time to full-time work opportunities, without the trouble and expenses of advertising and self-promotion.

Signing Up

Although anyone can browse projects on the site, posting projects and bidding are restricted to registered users. Follow these simple steps to activate your Freelancer.com account:

- 1) Fill out a short registration form. From the Signup page, you'll be asked to create a unique username that will identify you on our system. You'll also need to provide a valid email address and confirm reading our Terms and Conditions. No personal information will be requested.
- 2) Confirm your email address. When you submit the registration form, a message containing a link and confirmation code will be sent to the email address you provided. You must follow the instructions in the email to provide the confirmation code in order to activate your account.
- 3) Create your profile. Take a few minutes to provide some information about yourself and/or your business. This information will be stored on your profile page to provide other users with an overview of your skills and/or needs. No personal or contact information should be shared.

Projects

Projects are posted by registered clients with work descriptions, skill requirements, and a budget range. Freelancers browse or search the posted projects for those that match their skills and interests. After reading the full descriptions of applicable projects, freelancers can place bids and upload their work samples on their portfolio page for clients to check. Clients then examine the posted bids and work samples to determine the most qualified bidders and award the project to one or more freelancers.

Freelancer.com encourages clients to provide accurate and complete descriptions when posting projects. Our posting and bidding systems are designed to maximize the potential for satisfactory results for both the service buyer and service provider.

Optional features can be added to a project post.

Accounts

Each registered Freelancer.com user is provided with a free online account for payments or fund transfers. Funds can be added as direct payments from other users through projects/contests or from various payment sources such as the user's credit card, online accounts (PayPal or Skrill) or bank transfer.

A freelancer may withdraw funds from his or her Freelancer.com account via Express Withdrawal, Wire Withdrawal, or online account (PayPal or Skrill). An optional debit card is also available that provides users with immediate access to the funds in their accounts.

Withdrawal requests are handled on a weekly basis. Minimal fees to offset processing costs may apply to certain transfers and are deducted when the transfer is initiated.

Fees payable to Freelancer.com for memberships, project acceptance, exams, etc. are also deducted from users' accounts as applied.

Payments

Clients can pay service providers via transfer from their accounts to providers' accounts. This can be done through Milestone Payments, invoices, or fund transfers.

Funds can be deposited to our Milestone Payment System and released when prearranged milestones within the project are reached. Clients are under no obligation to provide upfront payment and should only consider this with well-trusted freelancers as released payments can only be returned upon consent of the freelancer.

Shorter term projects can also be paid via the Milestone Payment System, to assure the freelancer that the funds are available while allowing the client to release the funds only after the project is completed to his or her satisfaction.

The Freelancer.com rating and feedback system (described below) is only available for projects when payments are made through Freelancer.com.

Feedback and Ratings

When a project is completed through payments made within the Freelancer.com system, the feedback and rating system for that project will be activated. This provides the opportunity for the client and freelancer to rate each other's performance through comments and a simple 5-star rating scale. To ensure fairness, members may also post a response to the other party's comments. A freelancer's overall ratings and individual project ratings and feedback are shown on their profile page to help clients assess the value of working with that freelancer.

The feedback and rating system allows both clients and freelancers the opportunity to build their reputations through performance. It also provides the entire Freelancer.com community with added protection against potential scams and unsatisfactory business transactions.

Summary

Freelancer.com strives to provide a safe, simple, and affordable environment for cooperation between freelancers and clients around the world. Join our ever-increasing membership to maximize the earning potential of your business through outsourcing, freelancing, or both!

Can I Make a Living on Freelancer.com? ($10K Monthly)

It will probably come as no surprise to hear that freelancers often talk amongst themselves about pay. From online forums to conversations with friends (both of which I've been a part), the topic of income tends to come up a lot. Whether or not freelancers can actually earn a good living probably depends on whom you ask, but according to one survey by Payoneer, the average freelance fee was $19 per hour across all fields and regions.

It's important to take surveys like this with a grain of salt, since obviously how much the average freelancer makes can vary wildly based on a number of factors. In my experience, however, the answer is yes, you really can earn a good (even great!) living as a freelancer. Will it be easy? No. Will it be worth it? Absolutely.

In my almost seven years of exclusively freelancing for a living, here are a few things I believe the average freelancer needs to do in order to make a living wage:

Treat it like a business

If you quit your day job to freelance because you'd like to stay in your sweats all day, work from bed, and take every Friday off, then here's a little secret: you won't succeed. There really is something to the mantra, "Dress up, show up." Just because the majority of your job is conducted from behind a computer screen doesn't mean you don't need to play the part.

As a freelancer, you are the CEO of your business, so you should act like one. That means keeping specific hours (especially helpful for clients, editors, collaborators, etc. to be able to reach you), setting up an actual workspace, and yes, dressing up. You don't necessarily need to wear a suit to sit at your desk (although if you want to, more power to you!), but changing out of your pajamas is a good start.

Be Organized

You'll never be able to tell if your business is growing or how successful you are if you don't keep detailed documentation of your work. This type of documentation might look different depending on what line of freelancing you do. As a writer, for me that means keeping a spreadsheet with the following:

- Every story I work on through the year, broken out by quarter and month
- The name and contact information of every editor I work with for particular stories

- Major dates, like outline, draft, and revision deadlines
- Payment information, including the date I turn in an invoice and the date I get paid
- How much the story pays, along with how much I'll keep out for taxes and how much that story nets me after taxes
- A status of where I'm at with the story—haven't started, outline is in, first draft is in, etc.
- What I've netted for the month in total, what I'll pay in taxes for the month, and what I get to pocket

It's a lot of information to keep on hand, sure, but it means I (hopefully) never miss a deadline and (even more hopefully) never forget a payment that hasn't been issued on time.

Invest in your business

While it might be possible to conduct your freelance work on your seven-year-old computer without a printer and/or scanner or solid cell phone service, the more likely scenario is that this type of setup causes a lot of headaches. If you're just starting out and money is tight, consider setting up a separate savings account to funnel even a couple dollars from each paycheck into so that you can splurge a few months down the road on the systems that will really help your business flourish. And remember, anything you buy for your business may be a tax write-off.

Be an expert at networking

The not-so-secret tip about earning a good living as a freelancer is that in order to make money, you often have to balance multiple clients at once. Unless you've landed a fantastic-paying freelance gig right out of the gate (congrats!), it can take a lot of time—years even—to build up a solid body of work, or to work your way up to the more elusive high-paying clients. One of the best ways to work that gig hustle is to network like a pro.

The truth is that it is possible to earn a good living as a freelancer if you're willing to put in the time and energy to make it happen. The suggestions above are a good place to start.

How to Create a Profile on Freelancer.com?

Freelancer.com allows clients and freelancers to work together on both online and offline projects over a wide range of categories through projects and contests.

Signing up is easy.

1. Click Sign Up on the Freelancer.com homepage. Registration is free.
2. You can choose to sign up via Facebook or via email.

The image shows the Freelancer.com sign-up interface. At the top is the Freelancer logo, which consists of a blue stylized 'F' icon followed by the word 'freelancer' in a bold, black, sans-serif font. Below the logo is the text 'Sign Up' in a bold, black font. There are two main options for signing up: a blue button with a white Facebook 'f' icon and the text 'Continue with Facebook', and a white button with a blue border and the text 'Join Freelancer'. Between these buttons is a horizontal line with the word 'OR' in the center. Below the 'Join Freelancer' button are two input fields: one for 'Email' and one for 'Password'. Below the password field is a checkbox with the text 'I agree to the Freelancer User Agreement and Privacy Policy.' At the bottom of the form is a link that says 'Already have an account? Log in'.

**By signing up, you agree to our Terms and Conditions and Privacy Policy.*

3. You will then be asked to provide a username. Note that once chosen, a username cannot be changed. Click Next once done.

Username should:

- be alphanumeric (contains letters and/or numbers),
- start with a letter, and
- have 16 characters at most.

4. Select your account type. This can be changed anytime on your Account Settings page.

After registration, verify your email address, and complete your account details. Here are some important resources to check as well:

Write Professional Profile Title for Freelancer

The best professional title for freelancer can increase your job winning score up to 90%. These professional title examples are only for you if you're getting trouble to select a perfect title for your freelancer profile.

Most of the freelancers do not know how to add a professional title in freelancer to attract the clients. Adding only the work name can harm your profile. Your title is the important key to your success that will determine your job category to your clients.

The professional headline for freelancer and upwork professional title are the most prominent thing to make money by freelancing. Let's see the most important elements to win a job in freelancer.

Professional Title Examples

Always remember that your title must reflect your skill and experience. Choose your title in a way so that your client get to know what type of work you do and experienced in. Your title is a kind of summary of your expertise. So, a wise title is necessary to use. Don't use a lengthy title. Rather a short and meaningful title is much helpful.

Try to use a title consists of less than 10 words. But all the keywords should be fit in your title that will make a good impression of you. If you are expert of multiple varieties of tasks then place your primary job first in your title. But we recommend you not to use more than two types of variety of your profession. Just highlight your specific area of advertise. You need not show yourself as an "Entrepreneur" or as "Jack of all Trades". Simple and succinct title will make the impression that you are dedicated to that specific work.

Focus from Client's End

While choosing a title it is normal that one thinks about what they do, which service they provide for, which area they are expert of etc. But it's not the right way to choose a title. Rather you must think of what your client may get from you. Think of how your clients may be benefited by you. This is the right way to choose a distinctive title to attract your clients and be hired. All your attention give to your client. Focus on the advantages that your client may get from you.

Use a Professional Title

Serious clients always look for serious freelancers. Your perfect and professional title means the serious impression of you. So, choose a professional title according to your work. But don't use an ambiguous or complex title that will make your client turn to the opposite. Here you will get some example of choosing best titles to some specific professions that will help you to choose your own.

Funny Titles also Works Great

Hey, you need not be serious always. It often happens that some freelancers get much popularity for their funny titles. They become well known to their clients with their funny titles. It represents your creative side. You may be heard the names like Social Media Rockstar, Captain of Design, Video Ninja, Copywriting Ninja, Graphics Guru etc. in some cases. These titles are quite attractive and work comparatively fast than the other serious titles. But you must use it in a creative manner. But remember that these funny titles won't be suitable to all professions. You can use these funny titles only if you are in creative profession or if you work for children. But you should use your own creative name for the purpose. Don't use a common name as a title. It will destroy your popularity as a creative employee.

Title for Multitasking Freelancer

There are many freelancers who do not work for one type of work. They are skilled of various tasks and they want job of these various types also. In such case your title will also be used for multipurpose. It must have the ability to draw attention of the clients who wants those kinds of works done by you. In such case you must use all the key words of your skill in your single title. But you must put your primary skill in the first place and then the other. But remember that a concise title is always better than a longer one. So, don't try to add your unnecessary or unimportant skill in your title. Try to limit it within 10 words.

We hope that our tips of selecting a perfect title as a freelancer will help you most in your freelancing purpose. Follow our instructions carefully. Hopefully, you will be able to choose a perfect title for you which will get more job opportunity and pave the way to earn more money through Freelancing. If you like our tips don't forget to share our website with others. All the best wishes for your career.

Create Portfolio on Freelancer [Data Entry]

If you are new to Freelancing and need a data entry portfolio sample for Freelancer, then this post is yours. ## How to add Data Entry Portfolio in your Profile

The steps of adding data entry portfolio in your freelancer or upwork profile is pretty much easy. Login to your account, then to to portfolio section and clicl (+) [Add Portfolio]

If you in freelancer, you will find the above section to fill up. Let's see what the section includes:

1. Project Title:

Simply input any name of any data entry related projects.

2. Related Specialized Profile:

You know freelancer gives you option to create different types of profile for multi-talented freelancer. If you have more than one profile then you can select one from the drop down list. If you have a single profile then no need to change here.

3. Related Freelancer Job:

If you already completed any project you can select that best matches. If not, no need to edit here.

4. Completion Date:

Just put a date of your project completion.

Then >> GO to Select Template

The screenshot shows the Upwork dashboard with the 'Select template' page active. The left sidebar contains a navigation menu with 'Add project', 'Select template' (highlighted), 'Add details', and 'Preview'. The main content area is titled 'Select template' and includes a sub-header 'Choose how you want this project displayed to clients. You can always switch templates, even after you publish.' Below this, there are three template cards: 'Gallery' (with a description 'Display images or videos, one at a time'), 'Case Study' (with a description 'Highlight the project problem and your solution'), and 'Classic' (with a description 'Allow clients to scroll through your work'). At the bottom of the main content area, there is a 'Back' button and a 'Go to Add Details' button.

Now select a template from the 03 designs and click on Go to Add Details

The screenshot shows the Upwork dashboard with the 'Add details' page active. The left sidebar contains a navigation menu with 'Add project', 'Select template', 'Add details' (highlighted), and 'Preview'. The main content area is titled 'Add details' and includes a sub-header 'Drag images here or browse to upload'. Below this, there is a section for 'Social Media Strategy Skills' and 'Social Media Strategy Deliverables', each with a list of checkboxes. The 'Project URL (optional)' field is also present. The 'Project Description' field is a large text area. At the bottom of the main content area, there is a 'Back' button and a 'Go to Preview' button.

1. Add a Thumbnail:

Here you have to add a cover photo of your project that will uphold an imagery view of your project. Click on Browse or Drag images to add here.

2. Add Skills:

Tick the skills name that are the best matches for this project. Here the skills name will be shown according to the skills you added when creating profile.

3. Project URL:

No need to add any project URL if you don't have any link. If you have any authentic source then please add it.

4. Project Description:

This is one of the important parts. Please add as much information as you can in this section.

And finally go to >> Preview and then Save the portfolio.

Project Details:

I was hired by an Auto Phone company for a large number of data to input their new database. I was given a large number of data hard copies to input their online form one by one. There were millions of data to input and a large number of freelancers were working there to put the data. And I was one of them.

For the beginning I got it hard and it took a bit more time to do a single entry. But for the time being I was so much used to it and starting inputs like a rocket. And believe it or not, I was stood first among the hundreds of their workers and I was rewarded by the best data entry operator of that group. It was an amazing journey with a large company like Auto Phone and I had a great experiences to work in a team. I could provide my best and win the heart of the project head. Great Experiences!

How to Apply for Jobs on Freelancer?

There are some secrets in applying on a job in Freelancer. Why clients will hire you if you apply like other 10 common freelancers? You have to be exceptional and the exception wins the job.

Even beginner freelancers can beat out experts at getting jobs, not by lowering their price, but by sending a thoughtful and unique proposal. I am sharing the professional tips for submitting a proposal.

#1 Quality is better than Quantity

Let's define your mind "I will apply for 01 job and win that 01 job". It has become a tradition to apply a lot and do hurry when applying. Just think from the part of the job posters. They actually need a freelancer to get their job done nether to give you money only. Only apply for the qualified jobs. Search more even though it take times.

#2. Must Read the Job Description

Too often freelancers don't read the actual job description, they only read the title. Not only am I a freelancer on Upwork, but I hire a lot on Upwork as well.

Days

Paid to you: €1,125.00 - €112.50 fee = €1,012.50

Describe your proposal

What makes you the best candidate for this project?

I can't tell you how many times I get proposals where the freelancer clearly didn't read the job description. If you want to make sure the client is a great fit, you need to read the job description, just reading the title isn't enough. Only apply if the requirements fit in your expertise otherwise ignore it.

#3. Find Unique Code in the Job Description

This is funny that clients are also aware of unaware proposal bidding. In order to make the list short clients usually put some unique codes in the job description [example: TUDI] and mention to write those code in the beginning of the proposal. If you do not mention that code you are rejected at the first glance.

#4. Never Copy Paste Cover Letter

Copy paste kills. I like to suggest you to write your letter at your own according to the job description. Try to answer line by line of the job description and make the client confident why you are fit for this job.

Try so send an action plan with the proposal and come up with an actual plan. Try to be unique from other applicants and draw the attention of the job poster.

#5. Show your Confidence

Whenever someone asks me how to write an Freelancer proposal, I advise them to give the client something of value for free. You don't have to spend long on this, but give the prospect something for free that shows your interest and confidence in the work and your expertise. Do something that will only take you a few minutes, customize it a bit and make sure this represents you, and your work, well.

For example, if you are a writer, you can offer to write 200-300 words for free to show your writing prowess. Or if you are an SEO expert, you may do a simple audit for a webpage. No matter where your expertise belongs to, you'll find something which will take very little time but make a lot of impacts.

Clients aren't looking for free stuff on Freelancer, they are looking for freelancers who are capable of completing their tasks. But if you offer something of value for free, they will appreciate your goodwill and understand that you are doing your best to prove that you are worthy.

#6. Prove you are the Best

Give them a couple of options. Say something like "you can take this free spreadsheet and hire someone else or you can have me complete the job." When you give people an option, they are likely to pick one or the other, rather than giving them an open-ended option where they may not choose anything at all.

This might seem risky at the first place, as you might end up giving a reason to not hire you. But this is not the case for real. If you give prospecting clients an open-ended option, you don't have things under your control. By doing a risk reversal, you set up a benchmark based on which the hiring should happen. And who is the best-suited person to meet the standards set up by you? Yourself.

If you don't get hired even after doing a risk reversal, it is highly likely that the client would have hired you anyway. That means you are not increasing the risk of not getting hired by implementing this strategy. The clients want the applicants to give them reasons to hire you, and risk reversal is a technique to show them proper reasons why you are the best-suited candidate for the job.

Another benefit of this technique is, very few other freelancers will come up with a similar strategy. Risk reversal will label you as a unique candidate who is knowledgeable and already have a plan to complete the task. This is exactly what clients are looking for.

#7 Make the Client Smile

Make him smile means reducing the headache of the client while hiring for the job. When clients look for freelancers for larger projects in particular, they tend to be more cautious while hiring someone. You need to show them that the risk associated with hiring you is significantly lower than hiring someone else.

Make it as easy as possible for them to hire you, especially for larger jobs. They have to take a leap of faith when hiring you, so perhaps offer that they hire you for only a few hours, instead of 100. This will allow you to show your expertise and good communication. Once a relationship is established it's much easier to continue.

If you are hired for a few hours, then it is up to you to do a great job and extend your contract. If you agree to work for a few hours to prove your worth, the clients will be more likely to hire you as they have a lot less to lose even if you fail to deliver. On the contrary, the clients will face wastage of a lot of time and money if the hired freelancer fails to complete the project after taking the whole job.

By lowering barriers to entry, you put the clients in a comfort zone. In cases like this, your first priority should be building a long term relationship with the client. Once the relationship is built, the client won't hesitate to give you larger projects, and even future projects.

#8 Give the Best Price

Pricing is an important aspect when it comes to freelance jobs. At times freelancers don't understand how to write a bid proposal and end up asking for outrageous amounts. No matter how much budget clients have, they will always try to get the best value for their money. If you demand an outrageous amount that is way above the market standard, then you will not get hired for sure.

The best way to go about is to explain in your job proposal why you deserve the payment you have asked for. Explain what you are going to provide for that price, and how the price is justified.

The client won't mind giving you a higher rate if you can prove your services are worth the price. But if someone else offers to provide the same services for a lower price, then you might not get the job. That's why you need to be fair while setting up the price. Here's a helpful freelancing pricing guide for you.

How to Write a Professional Proposal?

If you do not know how to write a cover letter and looking for the professional cover letter samples then you've come to the right place. You can easily download PDF file for sample cover letter from here.

If you have nothing in your mind about what is a Cover letter, don't worry, I am going to provide all the information you need to know about write a cover letter. And I will also provide you the best cover letter samples so that you can write your own killer cover letter to win a job.

What is a Cover Letter?

A Cover Letter is actually nothing but a document which is sent with your resume to provide additional information on your skills and experience. In simple words, it works like a seasoning over your dish.

The letter provides detailed information on why you are qualified for the job along with why you are applying for this particular job. Many experts think of their cover letter as a sales pitch that will market their credentials and help them to reach out for the interview. More likely, they want to make sure that cover letter makes the best impression on the person who is reviewing it so that they can easily get a call for the interview.

Why to Write a Cover Letter?

Our common perception is, as a cover letter typically accompanies each resume you send out, so maybe writing a cover letter is nothing but a courtesy or formality, right? No! That's a completely mistaken perception. Please pay attention while writing your cover letter as the employers use cover letters as a way to screen applicants for available jobs and to determine which candidates they would like to interview.

A cover letter, most of the times is your earliest or the only written contact with a potential employer which plays an important role to create a critical first impression. An effective cover letter explains the reasons for your interest in the specific organization and it also identifies your most relevant skills or experiences which determines your efficiency, quality and capability for finishing the job.

05: Steps of Writing a Cover Letter

01. Be Specific

A cover letter's work should be to complement your resume but not to duplicate it. A cover letter's sole purpose is to interpret the data-oriented, factual resume and to add a personal touch to your application for employment. An active worker should understand the Differences between a resume and a cover letter so that he can make sure he is writing a cover letter with the correct approach.

02. Don't Make an Essay

Well, you should specify your resume but there are some certain things that you don't need to include in the cover letters you write. Your cover letter should be about your qualifications for the job, not about you your personal life. It's totally irrelevant to share any personal information about yourself or your family in it unless they want it. Even if you don't have all the qualifications the employer is seeking it's wise not to mention it but you can focus on the credentials you have that are a match. I strongly prohibit everyone to mention salary unless the company asks for your salary requirements. One should keep in mind that if he has got any question about the job, the salary, the schedule, or the benefits or whatever else; it's really not appropriate to mention them in the letter.

Another important thing that sometimes people forget is, not to write too much. You should make your letter focused, concise and elegant. It's better to finish within a few paragraphs in length. Remember that, you should not convey more than enough information to entice the hiring manager to contact you for an interview because the most tragic part is, if you write too much, it's probably not going to be read and all your efforts will go in vain and no one is going to say sorry for that!

03. Customization

Who doesn't love a crafty cover letter? Even if you don't have all the requirements, but if your cover letter is easy to read, beautiful and precise, you might hit jackpot!

So, every cover letter you write should be customized in this process –

- Be aware of which job you're applying for. That's why you should include the job title in your opening paragraph.
- Do not forget to mention how you learned about the job. So please add a referral if you have one.
- Be specific about why you are qualified for the job.
- Let your employers know fast and loud about what you have to offer to his company. Be also specific about why you want to work at this particular company.
- You should take your time to find out your skills to the job description, and read up on the organization's mission, values and goals. And when you're done doing that don't forget to mention it in your letter.
- Thank your employer for being considered for the job. Show your gratitude towards him as every employer wants to hire a humble worker.

04. Edit and Proofread

Do not forget to edit and proof your cover letter before sending it. I know it might sound funny. One might say that, "Hey, I'm not in school, I don't make spelling mistakes!" True.

But it's not about just the spelling mistakes, it's about something big. It's about making sure that you included the correct employer and company names. Especially when you are writing multiple cover letters at once, it is not impossible to make a silly mistake. Printing out and reading the letter aloud is a good way to catch small typing mistakes as this and other mistakes. By doing this, you can fill up missing words, or cut out the sentences that sound odd.

Always double-check the spelling of your client's name and the company name. Many experts suggest that you should enlist a friend or a family member, if possible, to help proofread your cover letter, as we all know that two pairs of eyes are better than one and even professional proofreaders don't always catch their own mistakes.

05. Choose the Right Format

It's always wise to keep your cover letter formatted like a professional business letter. One important thing to consider here is that the font should match the font you used on your resume, and your cover letter should be simple and easy to read. Now here's some important tips to remember while formatting your cover letter-

Basic fonts like Arial, Calibri, Georgia, Verdana, and Times New Roman work well.

- A font size of 10 or 12 points is easy to read.
- Standard margins are 1" on the top, bottom, and left and right sides of the page.
- Add a space between the header, salutation, each paragraph, the closing, and your signature. You can reduce the font and margin sizes to keep your document on a single page, but do be sure to leave enough white space for your letter to be easy to read.
- Follow these cover letter formatting guidelines to ensure your letters match the professional standards expected by the hiring managers who review applications.

06: Parts of a Cover Letter

Although a cover letter may have, different ways to be written but there are six basic and main parts for every kind of cover letter. And they are –

- Header,
- Salutation,
- Introduction,
- Body,
- Closing,
- Signature.

01. Header

A cover letter should begin with both your and the employer's contact information like name, address, phone number and email which is generally followed by the date. But if you are writing an email formatted letter rather than a hard copied letter, please remember to include your contact information at the end of the letter, after your signature.

Your contact information should include:

- First and Last Name
- Street Address
- City, State Zip
- Phone
- Email

02. Salutation

Consider writing your cover letter salutation with “Dr. /Mr. /Ms. Last Name.” But if you are not sure about if your potential client is male or female, you should write out their full name. Or in case, you do not know the employer's name, simply write down, “Dear Hiring Manager.” Trust me when I say that this is very much better than the generic and formal, “To Whom It May Concern.”

You should review information on how to choose the right cover letter greeting to select one that works for the job and company you are applying to.

03. Introduction

Many of the new workers mix up between Salutation and the Introduction. But these two things are not the same at all. You should begin your introduction by stating with what job you are applying for. As I have mentioned earlier, never forget to mention where you heard about the job, particularly if you heard about it from a contact associated with the company. You should also briefly mention how your skills and experience match the company or the position; this will give your employer a preview of the rest of your letter. Your one and only goal in the introduction is to get the reader's attention and nothing more or less.

04. Body

Here in the Body, you should be concentrated on explaining why you are interested in the job and why you make an excellent candidate for the position but not in more than two paragraphs, one is better. You should mention specific qualifications listed in the job posting, and you should explain how you meet those qualifications better than others do. Do not just simply copy and paste your resume, but think about providing specific examples that demonstrate your abilities.

Remember, actions speak louder than words, so do not just "tell" the reader that you are the best one for this job, No. But you should use effective examples from your work experience to "show" these traits in action.

05. Closing

In the closing section of your cover letter, show your employer again, about how your skills make you a strong fit for the company or for the position. If you have room, you may also discuss why you would like to work at their company or project.

State that you would like to have the opportunity to interview or discuss employment opportunities with him/ her. Explain your employer about what you are willing do to follow-up and explain when you are willing do it. And in the end, thank your employer for his/her consideration.

06. Signature

If you're writing a cover letter, you always should use a complimentary close, and then end your cover letter with your signature, handwritten, followed by your typed name.

But if you are writing an email, simply include your typed name, followed by your contact information, after the complimentary close.

Types of Cover Letter

There are different types of Cover Letters but there's generally three types of cover letters that we usually use. Indeed, there are many sub types of these three main types. We will discuss everything ones by one but let us gather a little knowledge about these three types first which are –

- Application Letter,
- Prospecting Letter,
- Networking Letter.

01. The Application Letter:

The application letter is a particular type of Cover Letter, which responds to a known job opening such as Data Entry, Social Media Marketing, 3D Modeling, Architectural Designing, Article Writing etc. Basically, you will have to write an application letter when you are applying for a job that has been posted by a company that's hiring workers. This company could be an online-based company from Dhaka or it may also be a famous company from New York, your client may belong from anywhere! You will find this kind of job posting on Freelancer, Upwork, Behance, People per hour, Toptal, Guru, Smashing Magazine, Fiverr and any other freelancing marketplaces or you may have to write one for company, organization, project, advertisement etc. related job posting. In a word, the use of application letters are huge and widespread.

Here is a sample cover letter of Application Letter category. I hope it will help you to understand its format.

02. The Prospecting Letter:

These types of Cover Letters are also known as the “Inquiry Letters” as they inquire about possible positions. This cover letter is sent to those particular companies that may be hiring workers but have not advertised job openings online. Well, this might sound tricky that why would someone write a cover letter for a post that he does not even know about!

But what you may not know yet that a well-written inquiry letter can help you to get noticed by an employer who may not be actively recruiting. ### 03. The Networking Letter:

This particular type of Cover Letter is that one which requests information and assistance in your job search. Doesn't make sense? Okay, let's be specific.

You might find another cover letter, which might simply bounce up your position or business as a networking letter. This single letter that makes vital communications, can pay dividends in future business dealings. As we all are aware of the fact that networking is about relationship building, and one way to build relationships is through written communication, whether by letters or email. So it's not unusual that successful business people use networking letters to develop an arsenal of business and personal connections that gradually helps them to grow their businesses or gain new employment. Sometimes, you might get referred for a position too by writing a networking cover letter.

We live in a corporate world where everything depends on marketing and networking is marketing, whether for yourself or your business. So, needless to say, Networking Cover Letters have more importance than you might ever think of.

Now, let's read a sample Networking Cover Letter and explore its format.

Sample 03: Cover Letter Sample for a Referred Networking Letter

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing this letter to express my interest in the International Sales position open at TripleM, Inc. I am very familiar with your products, and would welcome the opportunity to speak with you about how I could help increase your International presence.

My colleague Mr. Zohan recommended that I should contact you directly about this position. Mr. Zohan and I have worked closely in the industry for many years, and he thought that I would be a good match for TripleM.

My nine years of experienced marketing widgets, not only locally but also internationally have given me an overall knowledge of the business, which is directly applicable to your interest in increasing sales abroad.

In my previous position as 'International Sales Representative' with UB Industries, I successfully increased our revenue in each of my territories by over 40% within my first year. In the five years I spent at UB, I helped to establish sales bases in an additional seven countries, while I never failed continuing to increase revenue in all.

Please take the time to review my resume as I firmly believe that I am an excellent candidate for the position you have advertised, and would very much like the opportunity to meet with you discuss what I have to offer TripleM Inc.

I truly appreciate your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Common Freelancer Proposal Mistakes [17]

Before we discuss Freelancer proposal mistakes, let's discuss the present condition of job proposal competition in Freelancer. Now a days, getting a job with freelancer.com as a freelancer is very difficult because too many freelancers are now applying for a single job. The clients also become overwhelmed when they see an abundance of candidates for just one job. The smart clients will of course take the best and most qualified freelancer for his or her project. So, how does the client examine their potential freelancers? Now the point of having a quality cover letter comes to light.

When the client receives an application, they carefully read the cover letter; review your feedback, work history, job success rate, experience and skills. After properly examining your profile and cover letter, the client will then make a decision to send you a message to be interviewed.

When you receive an interview message from your client, you should always response as early as possible because the client may need to start his or her project immediately. You must always present yourself professionally and aim to satisfy the client. They should be convinces that you have the appropriate skills that they are looking for. Of course, you should never apply for a job that does not meet your skills. Let's discuss the 17 Freelancer proposal mistakes:

Mistake 01: Copy and Pasting your Cover Letter for your Freelancer Job Application

Most of the freelances now have a sense of urgency to receive a job offer, which is why the competition is so fierce. As a result, they write their cover letters in Microsoft Office Docs and just copy-paste as needed. Most freelancers do not make different types of cover letters for different types of jobs. They think that the old cover letter will work everywhere. I strongly suggest that you do not just copy-paste your cover letters when applying for jobs. Here are the top ten rules to abide by when applying for a job.

- Read the job description carefully.
- Understand the required skills.
- Examine the skills that you have as well as the skills that you are lacking.

- Make a decision only when you believe you are a good fit for the job.
- Pick up the topic sentences from the job description.
- Explain the topic lines carefully in your cover letter.
- You can copy some common sentences to save time.
- Always use new and updated sentences.
- Do not use same beginning over and over.
- Do not use same ending over and over.

Mistake 02: Rushing to Apply

With the competition level being so high, freelancers think that if they apply faster, they will get a job offer faster. This is almost never the case. When a freelancer does hurry, he or she is more likely to make mistake in his or her cover letter. I suggest that you do not rush and instead go over each detail to ensure that your application is submitted properly. First, read through the client's job description and then apply gradually follow the above 10 rules.

Mistake 03: Always offering cheap rate for hourly jobs

One common problem in most of the freelancers is that they think offering cheap rates can increase their chance of being offered the job. However, this is far from true. When you are applying, you should check the client's average hourly rate. Suppose one client's average hourly rate is $4.00/hr, based off this information you should apply for somewhere in the ballpark of $3.00/hr or $5.00/hr regarding the job requirements. If you apply with a rate of $10.00/hr, the client will most likely not entertain your cover letter. One common problem is that freelancers do not check for the average hourly rate so they continue applying for $3.00/hr. I suggest that you check each client's average hourly rate first and then apply. Another issue is that when a new client to Freelancer post is a job description, you will not be able to see an average hourly rate. In this case, you should apply according to your regular job rate and make adjustments as you see fit with consideration to the job requirements.

Mistake 04: Applying over the Budget for a Fixed-Price Job

When a client post is a fixed-price job, they should always provide a budget. Sometimes new clients are not aware of the job budget. The client may put the budget at $10, give or take. The problem with this is that our freelancers start applying for jobs for less than $10. This is because they think that the client will accept the low price. You should always apply considering the project needs. For example, you might offer $100 where the client posted for $10. Never think that if you offer less, the client will be satisfied and hire you.

$ 100.00

The screenshot shows a job post interface. At the top, it says 'Requires 2 Connects' with a help icon. Below that, it says 'When you submit a proposal, you'll have 50 Connects remaining. Your Connects reset on January, 3.' and a 'Learn more' link. A horizontal line separates this from the budget section, which says 'The client's budget is $50.00 US Dollars'. Another horizontal line follows. Below that is the 'Bid' section, which says 'This is the amount the client will see on your proposal'. To the right of this text is a green dollar sign and a text input field containing '100.00'. Red circles highlight the '$50.00' in the budget section and the '100.00' in the bid input field. Two black arrows point from the text above to these circled values: one from 'Connects' to the budget and one from 'proposal' to the bid.

Mistake 05: Focusing on Experience over the Job Description

Sometimes freelancers start writing their cover letter by talking about all of their years of experience. Example: Hello, I have 10 plus years of experience that I can apply to your job, bla bla bla. One should never focus too much on his or her experience. You should try to concentrate more on the subject matter in the job description. The client will be satisfied when they see that you have related your knowledge to the facts that he mentioned in his job description. I suggest to stay away from focusing too much on job experience over the actual subject matter.

Mistake 06: New Clients, no Feedback and Payment Method Unverified

Most freelancers do not feel interest in applying for jobs where a client does not have any feedback or payment method listed. I wouldn't let this stop you from applying. Flip the script to a client looking to hire yourself as a new freelancer. Clients still might hire you and give you the chance to show off your skills. You may even have a better skill set than another freelancer who has 2 or 3 years of experience. Sometimes one client may take 3 days to verify his payment method. You might pass up on a great job opportunity simply because you overlooked someone with less experience who is new to Freelancer and hasn't verified their payment method just yet. Don't let opportunity pass you by.

Mistake 07: Over Confidence

Clients can see when a freelancer has 100% job success rate, 5 out of 5 star rating, proper portfolio, proper work history, proper overview and good positive comments from past clients. Relying just on your profile and high ratings is a matter of over confidence. You are applying like you are the boss and that none of your competition is worthy. You thought that your profile alone can get you the jobs that you want. One thing to remember, clients will first see your cover letter and then your profile. With that being said, try to explain your skills and experience neatly rather than showing over confidence.

Mistake 08: Responding Delay in a Client's Message or Interview

Most of the new freelancers do not even know what an interview is. Let me make this clear, after applying for a job, a client will read your cover letter and send you a message. That message is called, "the call for an interview". Sometimes it so happens that a client calls for an interview with you, but you are unable to respond in due time. You end up responding 12 hours later. If the client needs the job done immediately, he will likely skip you can call another freelancer. Try to respond quickly when applying for a job with Freelancer.

Mistake: 09: Beg to Hire

Most of the new freelancers have a bad habit of begging client's to hire them. Just remember one thing; if you are a client and you want quality work in timely manner, you will be sure that you find a qualified freelancer for your project, not someone who begs until you give in. Don't ever beg for the job. Try to present yourself in a professional manner to increase the likelihood of being offered the job.

Mistake 10: Not applying when you see Poor Feedback

Sometimes when you are applying for a job, you may see that the client's feedback is 3.50 stars or less. Suddenly, you change your mind and decide not to apply for the job. If you have a strong belief in your skills, don't let this hold you back from applying. Also, if you have poor feedback on your profile, don't hesitate to apply for a job. Sometimes your feedback is not important if you have great skills, solid work history and a killer cover letter.

Mistake 11: Shortcut answers for additional questions in Freelancer

One of the most important things to remember is that all clients see your answers to additional questions first and your cover letter last. So providing a good answer to the additional question can increase your chances to get a job offer.

Sometimes we see...

- Client's question: Do you have suggestions to make this project run successfully?
Your answer: yes, I have.
- Client's question: Do you have any questions about the job description?
Your answer: No, I have not.

Typically, we try to answer like this so that we cut down on the time it takes to apply. Do not rush when applying for a job. Try to arrange your cover letter in a clear and concise way to impress your clients. You can check Additional Questions and Answers of Freelancer Job Application.

Mistake 12: Applying seeing interviews

Sometimes, when you are applying for a job, you may see that there are already one or more interviews that are in process and you decide not to apply. Taking an interview with a worker means that the job is already 90% theirs. Why would you apply for a job that you have only a 10% possibility to get. Just 10% of the time, clients will hire freelancer after already conducting other interviews. Sometimes it is best to follow your instinct and not apply for a job where interviews are already taking place. You could spend more energy on another job where you have a better chance to receive the job offer.

Mistake 13: Cover Letter Formatting Mistake

Remember that a perfect cover letter should have a marvelous beginning, a descriptive body and a stunning ending. Sometimes freelancers rush and forget to maintain the structure of the cover letter. Sometimes freelancers start like this....

Sir, I have been working on these types of jobs for over 10 years now. I know everything there is to know pertaining to your job. Please hire me...

Never do this! Instead, try to apply in a proper way by writing a good cover letter. Sometimes you may need to shortcut the formalities of your cover letter. However, 60% of clients are still supporting proper formalities in cover letters. Even the highly professional clients may not like all of the formalities in your cover letter.

Mistake 14: Mentioning the Hints

This is the most common mistake that 80% of the freelancers make. When posting a job on Freelancer, a client might tell you to mention a hint in your cover letter. Let's see an example....

Job Description:

I am looking for a skilled sales person for my business. My business is a new brand product business and I want to increase sales in my local areas through marketing online. I am expecting applications from experienced persons only. Please mention, "I am qualified" in your cover letter's heading.

Just think, if you do not use the hint, "I am qualified" in your cover letter's heading, the client will dismiss your proposal without second thought. Applying without reading through the entire job description may cost you big time.

Mistake 15: Partial Matters

Read carefully, sometimes you may cook good food, can arrange fresh vegetables, use spicy masala, and make it delicious by providing a variety of other food ingredients. However, all of your efforts may go to waste if you cannot serve it properly. So, when applying you have to look after all of your partial materials, such as; profile picture, title, overview, Freelancer test's, job experience, portfolio, time availability, phone verification and language skills. Make all of the necessary arrangements and then serve it properly in time like a hot cake.

Mistake 16: Fear of asking Questions

Most freelancers don't know that clients actually appreciate questions from their potential workers. If you are a qualified freelancer, you must understand the job properly and for proper understanding the job, you must ask questions. Again, do not try to ask any irrelevant questions. You have to ask questions in a way that will allow the client to understand that you have interest in their job and you want to make it successful by all means.

Mistake 17: Failing to View the Requirements

Sometimes clients may set requirements for their particular job. The client may ask for the "Natives Only", "100+ hours billed", "night work", "4.5% plus feedback" and/or "80% plus job success". You can still apply for this job, but the clients can always see that you did not meet all of the required fields. It will suddenly decrease your chances by 60% to get that particular job. I advise that you do not apply where there is not a 100% match with your skills and their requirements.

Submit a Proposal

You do not meet all the client's preferred qualifications

You may still submit a proposal, but the client will see that the proposal does not meet the following criteria:

English: Native
Region: Americas

Last word: Make up your mind...

- Quality is better than quantity.
- I will not do 10 applications to win a single job.
- I will do one quality application to win a single job.

What do you think after a long journey full of mistakes? Of course, you are now more determined than ever to avoid common mistakes in your cover letter. Never think that you are the only one who is presenting their cover letter in a professional and concise way. There will always be competition. You have to have some personal qualities to separate yourself from the field that will help make your cover letter stand out. I hope this article will help you in understanding more about how to win a get a job offer through Freelancer or any other freelancing market place. Please feel free to ask any questions in the comment area.

How to Answer Proposal Questions Professionally?

These common freelancer additional questions have to be answered during submitting a proposal mostly known as freelancer interview questions.

I would never encourage you to search for additional questions and answers of Freelancer proposal because most of the freelancers simply just copy and paste answers to the questions without understanding exactly what they are looking for.

Let's see some freelancer question samples below to help you understand the correct way to present your answers in the screening questions section for Freelancer. Note that your answers to each question will be seen by the client first then the cover letter.

Let's see all the Freelancer Additional Questions and Answers

- Question: What past project or job have you had that is most like this one and why?
  - Answer: According to your job requirements, I have done many projects that are similar to yours. For more details, you can review my portfolio, profiles and employment history where you will find projects similar to yours.
- Question: Do you have suggestions to make this project run successfully?
  - Answer: I have several suggestions for you regarding this project. According to my concepts, by updating your strategy and applying proper methods, I am very confident that we can make this project successful.
- Question: What part of this project most appeals to you?
  - Answer: There are actually two parts of this project that appeal to me more than the others. One part is that all of the requirements are in areas that have a great deal of experience in. The second part is that I really enjoy this kind of work. It is my passion and I take abundant pride and satisfaction in achieving great results.
- Question: Do you have any questions about the job description?
  - Answer: Your arrangement of the job description is fully understandable and I have understood it very well. Still I have no questions about your job description. If I need any further information latter, I must convey you and discuss with you in greater detail.

- Question: What challenging part of this job are you most experienced in?
  - Answer: Everything about this project is challenging. It is hard to find a project similar to yours that does not pose a challenge these days. This is because SEO is so competitive and you need someone who knows what they are doing to help guide you. My experience will help me set us apart from the field and get you ranked with Google.
- Question: What questions do you have about the project?
  - Answer: The job description that you have posted is very informative. I did not find anything that is irrelevant or questionable to me. I will be sure to ask you if I need any questions answered down the road.
- Question: Why do you think you are a good fit for this particular project?
  - Answer: I think I am a good fit for this project job because I have all the qualities that you are looking for. Experience is the golden factor with this type of project and I have a minimum of 3+ years of working experience in all of the categories that you need assistance with.
- Question: Which part of this project do you think will take the most time?
  - Answer: I have several years of experience in both fields. I always use the most up to date techniques to help gain an edge on the competition. I strongly believe that I will be able to make this project successful within a short period of time.
- Question: Which of the required job skills do you feel you are strongest at?
  - Answer: I have carefully read your job description and I have more than 3 years of extensive working experience in both of your required skills. I am extremely confident in my abilities to perform above and beyond your expectations in each phase of this project.
- Question: Why did you apply to this particular job?
  - Answer: I have applied to this particular job because I not only meet, but exceed all of the requirements for this project. I can assure you that, if given the opportunity, we will be successful and you will reap great satisfaction. Also I never apply to a job that doesn't match my skills.

➤ Question: Why should I hire you?

➤ Answer: I not only meet, but also exceed all of the requirements for this project. I can assure you that, if given the opportunity, we will be successful and you will reap great satisfaction. Besides, I never apply to a job that does not match my skills. I have done many projects similar to this over the years and I know the ins and outs of this field. If you want to be successful and be ranked by Google, you need to hire someone who has done it before. This is why I believe that I am your best option.

➤ Question: Why should I chose you over the other 100 that have applied for this Job?

➤ Answer: This is a good question. Freelancer will offer you many workers who claim that they know what they are doing. I am completely different from them. I have a long-term plan with milestones along the way. This is not my first rodeo and I am not here to cheat you. Rather, I am here to help you succeed by doing what I do best.

➤ Question: What can you do for us that someone else can't?

➤ Answer: It is difficult to say what another freelancer whom I have never met can and cannot do. Different workers have different skills and different past experiences. I can, however, assure you about myself that I never apply for or accept a project in which I know that I can't succeed at. I consider my skills and knowledge before I assure my clients anything. For this reason you can be sure that your project will be successful in due time.

➤ Question: Have you read the job description fully and understand it and feel you are an ideal candidate for the job?

➤ Answer: Great question. I never attempt to apply for a job without having a complete understanding of the task at hand and supreme confidence in my ability to be successful. I took my time in carefully reading the job description and only then did I decide to apply.

➤ Question: Do you have previous experience? If so, do you have some examples?

- Answer: This is a good question, my dear client. Yes, I have a lot of previous experience. For details, you can view my profile, work history and feedback. I have also attached some of my portfolio for you to view that is more relevant to your question.
- Question: How long do you need to complete this task?
  - Answer: I am always a first learner. I have studied your project very well and understand it well. I have a strong belief that I would be able to complete your task in a short period of time.
- Question: What is important for you in a company you work for?
  - Answer: Freelancers are always excited to satisfy their clients but very few clients think about worker's satisfaction. I am really thankful to you for asking this question. I appreciate good behavior, well circumstances, good communications, friendly approach and time-to-time payment.
- Question: How much time do you think it will take to accomplish the task for google results?
  - Answer: Competition is everywhere. People always want to be ranked in google. As a result competition is increasing day by day. The problem is that most people do not use the updated methods to achieve a high ranking. I know and understand what buttons to push and when to push them so that I can always hit the iron when it is hot. That's why I can assure you that I will be able to do help you get ranked in a short period of time compared to everyone else.
- Question: How much time do you think it will take to receive a high ranking with Google?
  - Answer: Competition is everywhere and it is extremely important to receive a good ranking with Google. The problem is that most people do not use the updated methods to achieve a high ranking. I know and understand what buttons to push and when to push them so that I can always hit the iron when it is hot. That's why I can assure you that I will be able to do help you get ranked in a short period of time compared to everyone else.
- Question: What SEO jobs have you done in the past?

- Answer: I have successfully completed many SEO projects before, which you can see in my employment history and portfolio projects. I am confident that I will be successful with this particular project and I assure you that you will not make a mistake in hiring me.
- Question: How much time will you need to work on this project to see results and how will you spend your time working on this project?
- Answer: I strongly believe that I will be able to achieve success in a short period of time. I will spend my time working on this project hourly and I will report to you as needed.
- Question: Have you done high quality back linking before? If so what sites do you use?
- Answer: I have done high PR back linking before and ranked multiple sites. You can check my employment history and portfolio. (You can also include some links here)
- Question: Who have you worked with that has yielded quick results. What was the cost to client to receive positive results?
- Answer: I have successfully completed a variety of projects. You can view my portfolio and employment history for more details. I always take a fair price and will take any and all concerns regarding cost and payment method into consideration.
- Question: Tell me how you would go about increasing my rankings for my website?
- Answer: Ranking a website on particular keywords has become increasingly difficult. If you have relevant ideas and skills about the search engines' logarithm, you must stay ahead of the competition. I will utilize my wide skill-set to ensure that your site is search engine friendly and then I will increase its popularity, which will have a very positive effect on its rank.
- Question: Can you read and understand English to a reasonable standard?
- Answer: Yes, I can read and understand English to a reasonable standard. Although English is my second language, I practice it very well and I can read, write, listen and speak fluently in English. This ensures that I clearly understand your project request and that there will not be any type of communication issues.

➤ Question: Tell me how you would go about increasing my rankings for my website?

➤ Answer: Ranking is very competitive in today's market. For a professional marketer, such as myself, this is a project where success is very realistic. Pro marketers always do research to keep up with the ever-changing and improving technology. In one hand, competition increases and in another hand, technology updates. So as a pro marketer and researcher, I can promise you that I know what I am doing and I have done it many times in the past. I know the proper steps to take and I do not take shortcuts.

➤ Question: How long does it take to rank a website? On google?

➤ Answer: Let me tell you the truth behind SEO ranking. SEO is now a difficult process as everyone wants to rank their business. For this reason, the search engine's logarithm is now updated and spam free. As a result, ranking a site overnight is completely impossible. SEO is a gradual process now. We have to rank a site gradually day by day. If you ask for an estimate, it may take 6 to 12+ months to get a website ranked in search engines.

It also depends on the site's keyword competition. If the keyword competition level is high, it will take much more time to get ranked. If the competition level is low, it will take less time to get ranked. Of course, we have to do white hat tasks for ranking a site. Black hat tasks are seriously harmful for a site. I always appreciate and do all the white hat methods to rank a website. Requesting you to give me a chance to display my talent by working on your project. I strongly believe that I am your best candidate and I assure you that I will take your project serious each and every day.

How to Get First Job on Freelancer?

Are you new to the land of Freelancer? If so, we welcome you in Freelancer. But as a new worker surely you are facing some troubles to get your first job. There is nothing to worry as long as we are here to provide you with all the strategy on “how to get first job on freelancer”. Our real tips will help you to get your first job on freelancer and start making money through it. Just keep patience and follow all of our instructions carefully. Read this article to the end because we have really a helpful guideline to the new freelancer to get their first job.

Let's see the tips to get your first job on Freelancer. Here you will find some steps to reach your goal. Follow these steps and you will find yourself on the top of your expectation.

Make Your Profile a Brighter One

The very first step to get your first job on freelancer is to make a bright and attractive profile. It is very easy to make a profile, but it is really very difficult to make it an attractive one. A damn profile is surely going to damn your career as a freelancer also. So, be conscious of making a good and presentable profile so that your client may be pleased with your personality and feel tempted to hire you. Here you go with some effective tips of the important things that really matter to your client and to your job.

01. Overview:

- Overview is the most important things of your profile that will set you apart from the other contractor. So, think over it what you should write in this overview part to make your client attracted. Focus on your skill that may be helpful for your client. Ask yourself why your client should hire you over the other worker. Ask yourself and answer it in the overview smartly. Make an overview of three or four paragraphs and try to stick within 1000 characters. Too lengthy overview will destroy your focus. Don't make it boring with unnecessary words.

02. Profile Picture:

- Oh, you know it very well that there is hardly any chance to meet your client directly to impress him. But your profile picture is that important think that will work like a bridge between you and your client. Your client will be able to see you through your picture. You must bear in mind that a picture speaks a thousand of words. So, it is very important to think deeply while choosing a profile picture. Don't put here any serious, sober or reserved image of you. Rather a smiling face is liked by all. After all a smiling face is preferred by any client to a thousand of words.

03. Setting up your hourly rate:

- Really, it's a very embarrassing thing to discuss about. But we cannot ignore it or your client. There are many clients who judge a worker according to their working rate. So, you must set your rate wisely while bidding. If you are confused about what your rate should be then check out other employees rate. But we recommend you to set a reasonable price always. Remember that if your price is too low it will make the impression that your working quality is also very low. On the other hand if you bid too high you will lose many clients because of their budget. So, bid reasonably to get your first work on freelancer.

04. Build up a strong Resume:

- Your resume works as a showcase of your skill and experience. So, don't forget to skip a single skill of yours. Arrange all of your skills in a Descending way. Remember that your client will judge you with every detail you put on here. So, build up a strong resume to catch up the attention of your client. Simply make a list of them. Also include the information of how long you have been using these skills in your past.

05. Take test and show result:

- You know there are some clients who take your tests into a great account. There are a lot of tests in freelancing. You must take the tests relevant to your work. Tests reflect your specialty. It is very necessary to take tests and show your result to the clients. And the best way of it is to show your result on the top of your profile. It is really very helpful to impress your client and to get the first job on Freelancer.

06. Create a Portfolio:

- Try to create an effective and rich portfolio. Clients often look over it to verify your experience. If you don't have enough work to make a portfolio then you must work for it. It is like a key to your job. You cannot ignore it at all. To enrich your portfolio you may start your own website and work in it and start a blog to show your client your skill.

Remain Active Always

There is no room for laziness in the land of freelancing. If you remain inactive you will lose many opportunities. So, try to remain active as much as possible. Concentrate on your work and overcome your laziness.

Respond Quickly

You know what, a quick response is liked by all. So, whenever your client is trying to contact with you make a quick response. Don't keep him waiting for long. Otherwise your client will turn opposite to hire another worker for his project. So, your time of response really matters to your clients.

Keep Patience and Don't Give Up

Really, it's an important thing to keep patience in freelancing when you are a completely new worker. It will take time to get your first job. Till then be patient and try to get hired. Your first jobs will really take some time but gradually you will see that you are getting hired fast. Generally, it takes two or three weeks to get the first job and then one or two weeks for the second. Thus, the time reduces to be hired. So, don't give up hope. Stick to your work. Hard times will go on soon. And you will be hired shortly. Be optimistic and self-confident. Believe it that success is only for you.

Carefully Read the Job Description

To get your first job you must read the job posts carefully. Try to understand what your client actually needs from you. You also make a research of your clients to get a clear idea of your client's work and so on.

Make a Killer Proposal

You must make a killer cover letter for getting your first job. If you may impress your client by your cover letter, it will be very easy for you to get the job. Highlight all your important skills and experience regarding your work. Explain your client how you may be an asset for him. Make him believe that you are the only person to meet his necessity. Make your proposal a smart one to attract your client. Do not use any template anywhere. Always try to make a unique piece of writing of your own.

Focus on Feedback, Not on Money

To get your first job you must focus on the feedback of your clients. Forget about money at the first time. You will be able to make a lot of money later. But your first target is to make your profile heavy with experience. So, do your job with your best attempt. Give time to your work. Make it improve as much as possible. Always ask your client for a reasonable wage and ask him for feedback. Use these feedbacks to improve your works.

These are all the strategies to get your first job on Freelancer. Read through the instructions carefully and apply these while preparing you for your job. Surely, you are going to be a successful freelancer. If you like our tips and find it helpful don't forget sharing our website with others. All the best wishes for your career as a freelancer.

What is Freelancer and How it Works?

Before going to the secret of being a successful freelancers, you must have a clear idea about Freelancer- what it means, how it works and how you can use it to make money all your own sitting on your bedroom. Freelancer.com is a website where the works are submitted by the client and Freelancers apply for those jobs and get hired. After successfully completing the job, the freelancers get paid.

The recruiters who remain busy but have a number of works to do for the improvement of their company they adopt this shortcut way to make their work done by some third party called freelancer. In this process the recruiters judge the freelancers according to their profile and experience. Then they choose one for their works and fix it with an agreeable wage to be paid after the submission of the work. When the work is submitted successfully the recruiters pay the money on the account of the employee.

These are the systems of freelancer. It includes a variety of work. Some instances are article writing for website and blogs, Photo editing, Graphic Designing, Data Entry, Web Development, Search Engine Optimization, Software Development, Creative Writing and so on. The freelancers can do these works in any place with a computer and internet connection. In fact they can do it even in their bedroom with their trouser at any time they please day or night. Nowadays it's becoming more and more popular all over the world.

Negativity of Freelancer for Making Money

It is often seen that people generally don't trust freelancer as it doesn't exist physically around us. But you need not worry of it. If you make a research you will find that there are many people who are much successful in the area and making money using it as the only way of their income source. So, don't go with these rubbish negative idea. Rather keep patience, follow our instructions carefully and your success is just one step away from you.

Secret of Being Successful on Freelancer

So, you are much eager to know the secret of the success on freelancer. Okay, we are now showing you the way to it. You must follow the following steps to be successful in the land of freelancing.

01. Create an Awesome Profile:

- Your profile is all that your client will check first. So, first of all make an awesome profile with all the correct information about you and include all of your skills and experiences in it to attract your client. Use a professional smiling photo for your profile. Don't forget to highlight your optimistic view and confidence. You have to represent your profile in such a way so that your client says that you are the one they need, only you are well worth for the job.

02. Freelancer Test & Success Score:

- To be really successful you should take test for freelancer. These tastes are really very much annoy-able. But what to do? These are our necessary evil.

One of the most important tests is Freelancer Readiness test. If you do not take this test then the clients will never hire you for their project. So, take relevant tests as much as possible and set your results at the top of your profile to please your client.

03. Update Your Profile Regularly:

- You must update your profile regularly with all the updated information. Add your recent projects also as soon as you finish it. It will make your profile heavy and suitable to your client. Another important thing is that, clients always like updated information.

04. Always Remain Active:

- After creating your profile you should always remain active. If you are lazy and don't search for work regularly then you won't be able to meet your target. Check the job post regularly, select your own, apply for it and wait to be hired. Try to respond quickly. I request you to apply daily 02 jobs. You can use email alert for immediate response. If you fail to response quickly, you will lose the possibility to be hired.

05. Analyze Your Client's Demand:

- Read the job post carefully. Try to understand what your client exactly asking for. Research your client to know more about his work and company. It will help you to represent yourself as your client demand. Without understanding the project carefully, do not apply. The client will only ask for an interview, if he feels that you understood the job requirements. Also carefully answer your Client's Screening Questions.

06. Write a Standard Proposal:

- Write your proposal in a standard and attractive way. Distinguish you from others through your speech in the proposal you are making to your clients. Make it concise and to the point as your client wants. Make your client belief of your skill and show your interest and enjoyment of your work. Make your proposal the most attractive so that your client becomes convinced to hit the hire button.

07. Respond Quickly:

- You should respond your clients quickly. A quick response always pleases your clients. So, try to be always available to your client and respond to them in a very short time. I request you to remain in freelancer messenger platform. It will show you active with a green icon.

08. Appropriate Work Rate:

- It is not a matter whether it is a fixed price job or hourly job, you have to apply for an appropriate wages. For the hourly job, you have to first check your client's average hourly rate and you have to place your rate according to that average salary. If you place higher on that, you may not be get hired. You have to do the same thing on fixed price job. Sometimes clients want cheaper offer from the freelancers.

09. Give the Best to Your Work:

- Once you get an order from any client, don't make any haste. Rather give all your effort to make the work best. Don't make any mistake here. Do your work in such a way so that you client become happy with your work and feel tempted to give the next work also. It will increase your marketing and help you to get more and more jobs.

10. Charge of Your Work:

- Keep your charge of work standard. Don't rate too high or too low. Remember that maximum clients look for a standard charged employee. If you charge high many clients will refuse you for their budget. On the other hand, if you charge very low your client will think that you are very cheap to trust with your work. So, rate a standard wage so that you may be knocked by the maximum clients.

11. Send a Draft Copy First:

- You may send a draft copy of your job first to know the opinions of your clients. If you send the final copy then ensure your client that you are always available to edit and improve your task if needed. It is really helpful to impress your client.

12. Submit your Work in Time:

- After getting any job finish it as soon as possible. Don't make so haste that your work be damaged. But you must submit your job in time. It will please your client and increase the chance of getting his next project also.

13. Ask for a Feedback:

- After submitting your task, don't forget to ask the feedback of your client. Use the feedback for your next project to improve it. Thus you will be able to make your project better than the previous one.

14. Ask for five Stars and Positive Comments:

- As a freelancer you must ask your client to rate five stars and positive comments for your work. It is always helpful to improve your profile. Other clients will be impressed with your the stars and positive comments of these projects and they will be eager to hire you for their own project.

So, use these techniques to be more successful in your freelance. Hopefully these will help you really. Adopt these techniques from now and you will see the change of your fortune. Our tips will make you be a very successful freelancer in a very short time. Wish you all the best to your career.

How to Improve Your Job Success Score on Freelancer?

First of all, I want to say that today's post is about the ways of improving job success score in freelancer. Freelancer is a platform of various kinds of top talent, it can be from programmers to designers or from writers to customer supporters, and many more. Before starting, please have some ideas in your mind:

1. No hurry, follow right steps

- Your Job Success Score is not haphazard or open. Freelancer uses a particular algorithm to calculate every freelancer's score. That doesn't mean you can just "lap a switch" and improve your score overnight, but if you follow the right steps and right instructions you can always improve your Job Success Score. Even it can happen in just a few weeks.

2. Quality of work

- This is one of the best strategies of score boosting. It is effective because you're designed to show that how talented freelancer you are. I'm about to share are effective because they're designed to show clients that you're a talented freelancer. It will help you to improve your scores in freelancer. And it also helps you to be hired by someone, a client, and your rate can be higher than you thought. Though we are not obvious the exact algorithm behind the score we know some factors that can boost your score when determining your performance.

3. Positive feedback is a must

- On Freelancer or boosting your score on freelancer, it is very significant to get positive feedback from your client. Your client can give you public and private ratings. And those ratings are important to highlight your profile, and have more percentages than others. So, be polite and humble to your client so that feedback will be very positive.

4. Proper and specific work

- Whatever your work is on Freelancer, you have to be proper and very specific to the work. As a result, your client will get satisfaction from your work and they will give you positive ratings or feedback. It will raise your demand to the clients. And they may feel that they should hire you again. On the other hand, your profile will be popular by a short range of time. So, my advice is, don't ruin your work by doing something else or adding some contents or words or a dot or a file which are not necessary toward your work.

5. No dispute or complain

- On Freelancer, your client may complain about you by observing your work. In that case, you have to handle the situation more carefully. If you disturb or load with some headaches, you should not behave abnormally or harshly rather than you can explain the problems or the difficulties for the interruption. And when they will hire a freelancer, they will look after profiles of finalist freelancers on freelancer.

6. Don't miss the deadline

- Every client has some expectations from there hired freelancers. They expect that you will submit their work in time. If you don't submit there work in time, they may fall in trouble. So, my advice is doing miss the deadline.

7. Be active and responsive

- As a freelancer, you have to be active and responsive. You can contact with your client over phone or video calling on internet. Whatever your client's objection or complaints about you can be avoided for a good communication. Because, if you are communicating with your client properly, they will know the problems and the profits of the work too.

8. Avoid controversy

- Do not involve yourself in any controversy. It can make your profile a worthless and a low rating profile. So be the just one. And do not involve in any controversy by missing the deadline or incompleting the work. It is very obvious that a controversy can bring down a low profile with low ratings to you.

Ok, let's start... And don't forget to be constant in that way

SEO Proposal Sample & Example for Freelancer (01)

Hello!

It's (write down your name).

I am an SEO expert with diverse skills but most precious skills that I possess are critical thinking, technical and programming skills and analytical skills. I have a quick thought process on attacking any kind of problems. I have been working on this precious sector for about 5 long years with a Bachelors' degree on Software Engineering.

I not only show the confidence but also I have the ability of distilling thoughts and complex ideas down into concepts that general people can understand and make decision with. I have encompassed my speaking and writing skills through the conversation with the clients and internal teams. I convinced them to do the right thing and also by writing case studies, PVOs and decks.

Whatsoever, I believe without programming knowledge it is quite tough to submit a terrific job and I do not lack of these skills as well. I am efficient enough in basic HTML, microdata tagging, lazy loading, rendering, server side redirects and page speed.

In my work I always ensure the coding implications of the changes and entails to know what the common objectives and mistakes are. And I also find out the ways how to overcome them smoothly.

Above all, I can say that conciliating my clients is my first priority and I confidently think that I am good at it. No lamentation is ever raised against me by my clients for my job. So, if you think I am the one worth the job, then I will be pleased if you pick me.

Thank you.

Data Entry Profile Summary Sample for Freelancer

A professional profile summary can lead a data entry freelancer to the right path. In a profile, a summary of the profile is a must which appears first among the several sections. As data entry has always been in the first row of online jobs, freelancers should understand the sublimity of creating a perfect profile summary because a client, while checking a profile, put his very first eyes on the profile summary segment.

This data entry profile summary sample for freelancers is the convenience of what tricks they should learn to make their profile summary killer, lofty and eye-catching. We are going to help you out with all the possible basics.

Client's Expectations on Freelancer's Data Entry Profile Summary

To write up a perfect profile summary you need to know the first and foremost interests of the clients. The purpose of the profile summary is to represent the skills, experiences and achievements in a short but effective manner.

Elaboration of unnecessary things in a profile summary is also unwelcome. Remember, there are thousands of resumes an employer has to check out. So definitely, a client expects you to write up the profile summary with relevant skills and relevant achievements.

An employer wants a straightforward profile summary and no lingering on that point. A true and honest profile summary is always claimed by the employers.

Avoid Mistakes on Data Entry Profile Summary of Freelancers

Mistakes are so common as it is human to err. But a little perseverance will assist you to not make any mistakes while writing up a profile summary.

Many freelancers do not understand their job but claim themselves as an expert. Avoid claiming false fame and be honest in your profile summary. If you are a newbie then persuade your client by making him believe in your extraordinary skills and talents. False claims can be fatal to your career.

Do not make your profile summary a big fat essay. “Short sentences but broad implications”, should be the type of the summary. This is the key factor as well. Clients take it as a second impression and can judge your skills quickly.

Do not think of doing any kind of plagiarism for it brings destruction to a leading career. There is no good if you cannot remain honest and true. You should be honest with yourself as well. Ethics and morality can bring you good if you write up your profile summary blending those two gems.

Avoid grammatical mistakes as it annoys some of the employers in a huge way. It is not funny. Some employers judge freelancers of their skills of writing by noticing the grammatical mistakes. So take this seriously for the sake of your job.

Do not be unprofessional and indifferent to your job. Your profile summary should indirectly point the fact that you know your job perfectly and can handle it with full professionalism. It should be specified with relevant skills, experiences, earnings and high rates.

Now we are going to provide profile summary samples for the freelancers who are involved with the job sector of data entry.

Article Writer Profile Summary Sample for Freelancer

This sample article writer profile summary for Freelancer can surely win your desired jobs. Welcome to the absolute source from where you can sort out your problem and grab techniques of writing a perfect profile summary following the basics.

Want to win a desirable job of article writing by providing a killer profile summary in Freelancer? Then here we go! Many freelancers fail to attempt the right kind of profile summary and lose the very impression of the clients and cannot reach their goal.

But if they learn some basic techniques and requirements a freelance article writer profile summary claims then it will be easy to catch the dream job. A slayer profile summary demands lofty and eye-catchy words. Not every freelancer understands the importance of knowing the key-factors of the profile summary. So here, expedient profile summary samples are going to be presented so that article writers can grab and use those for their convenience.

Client's Expectations on Article Writer Profile Summary of a Freelancer

Well, your client has some definite expectations from you as they have to check out the authenticity of the freelancers to secure their projects.

A profile summary is the leading segment of a profile. It appears in the very first segment and clients see that part of the profile the very first moment. The profile summary possesses the experiences, achievements and skills of the freelancer. So it is the foremost duty of the freelancer that to satisfy the client he should add those things without wasting single words on irrelevant things.

The progression of the profile summary should be sublime and striking. Clients always seek for the enchanting profile summary which makes a great impact on their thought and they think of you to sign you in their dream projects.

Remarkably work on the skills you are adding. Clients have to investigate thousands of profile summaries a day, which is kind of suffocating. So they seek for the observable one and that's why they set some keywords related to the project. If a freelancer strikes those keywords, the job is confirmed.

Elaboration and composition is strictly avoided by the clients as there is no time for it. So as per the expectations, the profile summary should be plain and straight yet remarkable.

Avoid Mistakes On Article Writer Profile Summary of a Freelancer

- A profile summary is the most important and significant part and this part is sensitive as well. So special kind of nurture should be given while you are up to it.
- Do not give any false assumption about your skills. It is a wrong thing to cheat your client. No good can be brought if you cannot remain honest to yourself. Better not to bring destruction to the career which has a bright future.
- Again, plagiarism or copy paste cannot be an option for an article writer. Prove yourself worth the job by giving your 100 percent to the project. And assure your client by giving a picture perfect profile summary.
- Understand the expectations of the client and do not remain ignorant to the requirements the client has asked for. It is important to comprehend what a client seeks for from a profile summary. Once you investigate the assertions of the project, feel free to write the profile summary maintaining the sequence.
- Do not add irrelevant skills and unprofessional experiences of your personal life. There is no need and not time for that. Make it precise, simple and subtle in nature and eye-catching and remarkable at the same time. Grammatical error from an article writer is also not appreciable at all. So avoid these mistakes at once.

Now we are going to provide you with two profile summary samples for the article writer so that you can come up with your dream job.

Final Words:

The profile summary is a segment which will always get your back. Haphazard or incomprehensible summary can be fatal to your career. Make it observable and remarkable in every possible way.

Web Developer Profile Summary Sample for Freelancer

A professional web developer profile summary is the significant part to become a great web coder because the client's trust largely depends on this. Not every web developer can be entrusted with the profile summary they provide. Freelancers, to some extent, put some unusual and useless words which shatters their career instantly.

So it is essential that they learn the tricks and tips of writing the authentic freelance web developer profile summary to earn the trust of the client and establish them as the best web developer in the market of online freelancing. Nevertheless, this article is going to provide you with two lofty profile summary samples just to help you out with the problems a freelancer faces while writing up a perfect profile summary.

Also, the primal prospects of clients and their prominent expectations from a freelancer are also included in this article. To write up a profile summary, if you follow the instructions given below, then your desired job is confirmed for sure. Just keep faith and make a try. You will not be disappointed for sure.

Client's Expectations on Web Developer Profile Summary

While writing up a freelance web developer profile summary, keeping the requirements of the client in mind should be the prominent concern of a freelancer. For, a client seeks for the needful information from a profile summary at the very first sight, so it is important that you know what you are quoting in your precious profile summary.

Again, a client's time is very precious as he has to deal with several jobs related works and also, has to check out several profile summaries at a time. It should be one of the foremost duties of a freelancer that he makes the best use of the time of the client. Short time, a great impact should be given on the profile summary.

Clients are fond of short and straightforward type of profile summary. So keeping the summary concisely beautiful is another concern you should think of. Choose your keywords and involve it in your summary in the best possible way.

Mistakes not Welcomed when Writing Web Developer Profile Summary

- Silly mistakes are the prominent reason why a web developer even being one of the finest freelancers, cannot get his desired job. Extra care should be given to tackle these imbecile mistakes. It is one of the big reasons a web developer finds his dream job.
- Avoid annoying gestures your writing may provide in the profile summary. Nothing in the market of freelancing is as precious as giving the right gesture in the profile summary. It has always been an important thing. Understanding this would lead a web developer to a bright future.
- Again, plagiarism is another negative reason, why a freelancer loses his possibility of becoming the finest web developer. Strongly avoid these negative aspects of a profile summary. Loyalty comes first at any cost.
- After that, work on beautifying the English language along with grammatical deficiency. Clients sometimes become picky and feel annoyed when English has been written in incorrect ways. This is no joke. Take it as a serious mission and work on it to get the dream project in hand.

Now these are the two profile samples for web developers to develop their career with ease.

Graphic Designer Profile Summary Sample for Freelancer

This graphics designer profile summary sample for freelancers is important to attract the clients to win the job for a graphic designer. But many fail to understand the pattern of writing a killer profile summary for graphics designing. We are going to teach you the way of writing up the slayer profile summary and make you have the absolute authentic job you are asking for.

Now that freelancers are increasing like the temperature of global warming, a freelancer has to pay little more heed to the techniques and pattern he is applying in a profile summary. Try to learn the expectations of the clients and then avoid the silly mistakes which can annoy the clients and then try to be honest and persevere to your profile summary. Only in that way you may get your dream job and have a bright future ahead.

Client's Prospects in Graphic Designer Profile Summary

To get a fine job, a lofty profile summary is the primal prospect of a client. If you remain indifferent to your summary and start to linger in writing a swift profile summary, your job is slipped to another freelancer's hand for sure. Your fine skills would not mean anything to anyone that time. So, be careful and show your worth.

Your impression is judged largely on the convincing method you are applying in your profile summary. Clients are pretty much experienced at judging the persuasive kind of profile summary. And persuasive nature is one of the most important skills for a job like graphic designing. So, just note it.

Relevant skills, acquirement's and educational skills are other major components, a client puts his eyes to determine his judgment. You will be honored with the job if you fulfill the expectations of the client by putting these things in your profile summary maintaining a right sequence.

Avoid Mistakes when Writing Graphic Designer Profile Summary

- Mistakes are never welcomed in the career of a freelancer, again it is humans who make silly mistakes. Okay, but try to learn to tackle these mistakes showing your super cool skills and impress your client at any means.

- In a profile summary, try to be precise and relevant for it is important to not waste the precious time of the client by making him reading the irrelevant skills which are useless for the project.
- An eye-catching profile summary is always appreciated. But to enchant it more, mistakes are not at all welcomed. Do not put unnecessary words and dishonest claims in the profile summary. Try to be loyal and loyalty will bring you the rest of the fame you crave for.
- Again, do not deprive yourself from a miraculous bright future by committing into wrong tasks like copy paste ideas or plagiarism. It is a fatal action for a career like graphic designing. Put your own creative ideas and work hard on it as it should be your ultimate motive anyway.

Also, work on beautifying your English Grammar if you are not interested in it. But clients sometimes get offended if you represent a two years old kid like English. So, extra effort is appreciated by anyone.

Freelancer Profile Summary Sample for SEO Expert

This SEO Expert Freelancer profile summary sample will gain your desired job in 2020. You are a Pro SEO Expert but fail to get a dream project because of lacking in writing up a killer profile summary? In order to solve your major obstacle, you are at the right site.

We are going to provide you two samples of a professional seo profile summary for freelancers. Also, to enlighten you, some pro techniques and tips are going to be provided in case you do not know how to deal with a client through a profile summary. Anything you write in a profile is not acceptable. There are certain steps you have to follow if you want to persuade your client.

Client's Requirements in Freelancer SEO Expert Profile Summary

There are certain expectations a client seeks as he has to feel secure by handing a project to a trustable SEO specialist. And being an expert in that field, an SEO freelancer should understand it and cooperate with the client by providing his requirements.

As it is the leading segment of a freelancer's profile, he should write up the summary of the profile with some great care. If you start lingering and represent a vague and obscure summary, the client would not accept it for sure. Your hard work would reflect on your profile summary and a client is experienced enough to understand it. So be careful and make your profile summary enchanting and precious. Only in this way you will be noticed by a client, who can confine you with the best projects of SEO field.

Mistakes to Avoid in Freelancer Profile Summary for SEO Expert

A profile summary, full of error is really disappointing. But if you pay some special notice, these kinds of errors can be abolished.

- First and foremost mistake that you should withdraw from your profile summary is that elaborating every single thing. Do not elaborate unnecessary and useless talking. It is considered as a bad habit and your profile summary minimizes its brightness in a greater way. So try to avoid it strictly.

- Again, dishonesty and disloyalty are other fatal things which you should dodge without giving a second thought. A client obviously checks your background and the solidity of your profile summary before handing you any project. If you are caught red-handed then there is no way out. You are doomed. So, be loyal and honest to your precious client.
- Plagiarism is another wrong deed from which you should restrain yourself at any cost. It can be disastrous to your bright future ahead. Try to evaluate your own creative skills and try hard to ensure that you are worth the job.
- Do not add other skills, achievements and experiences which are totally irrelevant with your work. It is just killing the precious time of the client. You have to understand the strategy a client follows in every profile summary and go with that flow. Only following these ways you can be marked as the best SEO specialist with a killer profile summary.

Digital Marketer Profile Summary Sample for Freelancer

Freelance digital marketer profile summary plays a very important role, as it is the main segment of the profile a client puts his eyes first. For a digital marketer, a killer and slayer profile summary can fetch a desirable project in his bladder.

Writing up a perfect digital marketer profile summary for freelancers is difficult for many digital marketing workers. Some do not understand what a profile summary claims, seeks for, and involve themselves in writing up profile summary in a wrong way. It is not easy for a client to investigate the right freelancer in a conspicuous way.

But there are certain things and techniques they notice from a digital marketing freelancer's profile summary and can make a judgment if the freelancer is capable enough to handle the project or not on the basis of that. So it is important to learn the techniques and tricks a profile summary asks for the betterment of the digital marketers. Two apt profile summary samples are going to be provided here for the convenience of the digital marketers.

Client's Expectations on Profile Summary of Digital Marketing Freelancer

Persuading your client should be the one big motive of your profile summary. Client expects you to uplift the skills, achievements and experiences in the summary in a very sagacious way.

If you want to melt the heart of your client then you have to comprehend what a client searches for in a summary. Generally, a client asks for the relevant skills related to the project and then the reviews and rates a freelancer has got from the previous writers.

A client has to check more than thousands profile a day, so a short and plain but remarkable profile summary is required every time.

An eye-catching and observable type of profile summary and the achievements you have earned throughout your digital marketing life is claimed as well. Clients want honesty, authenticity and secured profile summary so that they can hand over the project with total trust to the real digital marketer gaining full security.

Avoid Mistakes on Freelance Digital Marketer Profile Summary

It is important to represent a summary in a profile with neat and clean content. For that, a freelancer must understand the importance of writing up a profile summary correctly and sequencing the basics.

- Do not create a haphazard summary. Learn to maintain the sequence and preference of the client because it is the client for whom you are writing the profile summary. Do not take it less seriously, for it may bring bad effects to the career of a freelancer.
- Elaboration is another big mistake a freelancer sometimes step on. Make it as precise and concise as possible. Clients only check out the important skills and the authenticity of the demands of the freelancers. So to persuade the client, add the related skills and avoid false claiming.
- Again, if you involve yourself in plagiarism or copy paste issue, you lose the faith of the client instantly. Be honest to yourself and your work. Honesty brings the rest big moments of your life. Show your capability with hard-earned knowledge.
- Avoid grammatical mistakes as well. Try to be focused and contemplate on your profile summary. It is the best divine way to avoid silly mistakes of grammar any way.

Is Freelancer Legit or Scam?

Just as its name suggests, Freelancer.com is one of largest (if not the largest) freelance outsourcing marketplaces where businesses (clients) and workers (independent contractors) can meet. It's a virtual marketplace for talented and skilled freelancers to offer their services to buyers (clients). Freelancer.com's headquarters is located in Sydney, Australia.

According to Wikipedia, Freelancer.com was founded by Matt Brie in 2009 and he is still with the company today operating as Chief Executive.

In addition to several major accomplishments such as teaching cryptography and technology venture creation at the University of Sydney and co-authoring over 20 US patent applications (not to mention founding Freelancer.com), Matt is also a prolific speaker.

He has been featured at SXSW, The Summit Series, Tony Robbins, The Next Web, in the New York Times, Bloomberg TV, Wall Street Journal, TechCrunch, BRW and the Economist.

Throughout the years, Freelancer.com has gained acquisitions of other freelance companies such as the following:

- GetAFreelancer.com
- EUFreelance.com
- LimeExchange
- Scriptlance.com
- Freelancer.de
- Freelancer.co.uk
- Webmasters-talk.com
- vWorker.com
- Rent-A-Coder
- Escrow.com

It's quite obvious (and impressive) that Freelancer.com has grown tremendously through the years and having recently checked their site, I noticed an incredible statistic...

52,335,209
Registered Users

19,919,189
Total Jobs Posted

While similar marketplaces like Guru, People Per Hour and Wonolo are chugging along with hundreds of thousands of clients and workers... Freelancer is a behemoth (in a good way) with more than 40 Million registered users and over 16 Million job postings!

Their numbers are actually growing by the minute and they are definitely setting the pace in the online freelance industry. I could be wrong, but I think Upwork and Fiverr are their only close competitors at this scale.

Is Freelancer.com a Scam?

If you're just skimming and missed the first part of this review (don't worry, I'm a skimmer too), you may be wondering if Freelander.com is the real deal.

Millions of businesses and freelancers have found successful working relationships at Freelancer, but if you're new to independent contractor work and the gig economy, I get it. It's not easy to tell what's legit and what's a scam.

As mentioned a moment ago, Freelancer.com is one of the world's largest freelancing and outsourcing marketplaces. With 40 million users comprised of independent contractors and clients (from 200+ countries, territories, and regions) you can be confident they are not a scam.

However, with that many users, you can also be confident not everyone has been satisfied with their services, which is why you may have come across some negative reviews (I'll talk more about those in a moment).

Overall though, they have an extensive background in the freelance industry and a good reputation. Freelancer.com is 100% legit.

You shouldn't just take my word for it though. For additional signs they are not a scam, you can dig deeper into their online presence.

Scams are pretty hard to maintain, especially when it comes to longevity and things like social media followers. Freelancer.com however has both longevity and a serious social media following.

Their Facebook page has 2 million+ followers, and they also have over 200K followers on Twitter.

Freelance.com's Instagram account currently has 14K+ followers and another 6K on YouTube where you can find tutorials/guides, news, contests, etc.

Despite a massive following and being around for more than a decade, along with a long list of notable clients such as Microsoft, Boeing, Intel and GE... I still found many accusations they were a scam.

I'll get more into that below when I go through some of the reviews and common complaints about Freelancer.com, but I believe a lot of it comes down to each person's individual definitions of what a scam is. I'm not here to tell you Freelancer.com is the perfect company, but it should also be clear they are not a scam.

It's also about expectations...

One of the issues new freelancers have is simply the low pay. When you're starting out you'll often be taking a lower paying gigs to build up your portfolio and develop a client base.

There's some trial and error early on, as well as some frustration, and when new freelancers look at how much they've made for the amount of time they put in, it can be well below minimum wage in the beginning.

And if you have traditional employee expectations, working for less than minimum wage feels a lot like a scam. But of course, a freelancer is not a traditional employee...

This stage (low pay and few jobs) is really just part of the process. Eventually you build up your credentials, get referrals and develop a roster of regular clients.

And if you're struggling to find work early on, you can also make a few extra bucks online with things like surveys and market research. Of course, we're not talking about a lot of money... but survey sites like surveyjunkie.com and inboxdollars.com are an easy way to get started online while staying within your comfort zone.

They can also be a stepping stone to something more serious like an online business.

You may be at home because of difficulties with your health for example, or young ones to look after.

If that's the case and a full-time income online is what you want, knowing how and where to get started is what you need in order to get what you want.

Now, I'm going to give you a free step by step beginner's guide to making money online and you can get it by Clicking Here

Okay... let's move on from all of that and talk about how you can apply for jobs at Freelancer...

How Does Freelancer.com Work?

Basically, working as a freelancer/independent contractor on Freelancer.com can be summed up as follows...

- Bid or send proposals for available jobs on the Freelancer.com marketplace.
- Get hired/accepted for projects.
- Work on your accepted jobs.
- Get paid.

In the next sections, I'm going to discuss the whole process of working for clients and finding jobs at Freelancer.com – from signing up to getting paid and more!

3 Steps – How to Register to Freelancer.com and Start Getting Jobs

Step #1 – Signing up

In order to start working at Freelancer.com, you'll need to register for an account first. You can sign up to their platform by using your Facebook account or you can use an email and password combination.

Using your Facebook account will grant you instant access to their platform, while registering through your email will require a confirmation action from your end (they'll send a confirmation link to your email).

Sign Up

Continue with Facebook

OR

Join Freelancer

By registering you confirm that you accept the Terms and Conditions and Privacy Policy

Already have an account? Log In

For this step, I would suggest using an email and unique password to protect your privacy. I'm not a fan of joining platforms using third-party logins such as Facebook. For example, what if your Facebook account gets hacked, or vice-versa... the platform you've signed up for (Freelancer.com or any another platform) gets hacked?

It's always better to keep your all you logins isolated from one another with unique passwords.

Anyway... at the very least you probably don't want Freelancer.com or anyone else to have access to your personal data and activities on sites like Facebook.

Step #2 – Completing Your Profile

For security and verification purposes, you'll be asked to complete your profile on Freelancer.com. Having a completed profile will also increase your chances of getting jobs. Your Profile page is also the place where you'll need to select your particular skills so that you can be notified of relevant jobs.

Freelancer.com has a checklist to help you set up your profile. I advise following their instructions (such as uploading a photo) as this will add to your credibility and increase the odds of getting clients to hire you.

Step #3 – Bidding on Projects

Freelancer.com has a built-in job search functionality. Once you're accepted, you can start applying to jobs on their marketplace. You apply for jobs by bidding on projects – and when a client accepts your bid, you'll be awarded the job.

Types of Freelancer.com Jobs

The nice thing about Freelancer.com's marketplace is you'll find both small and large projects on the site. This is great as a freelancer and provides you with many options. You can choose not only the type of work you can handle, but also the duration and scope based on your skills and available time.

If you just want a quick side hustle for example, you can apply for small jobs. But if you have a lot of time on your hands for a large project (which also earns more), you can apply for something long-term that may even be exclusive, keeping you busy full-time so you're not piecing together multiple small jobs to come up with a full schedule.

When choosing gigs on Freelancer.com, you can also choose between fixed-price jobs and hourly jobs.

Fixed Price Jobs

Freelancer.com's fixed-price jobs have designated prices per project.

In other words, you're getting paid a fixed price for the entire project regardless of how long it takes to complete.

The advantage here is that you'll know up front how much you're going to make for a particular type of work (the project is described fully in the job post).

Usually, fixed-price jobs are paid at the end of the contract when the work is completed and accepted. However, if a project is quite large and spans more than a few days (like weeks or months), you can request your client release partial payments at specific milestones along the way to completion.

Hourly Jobs

Freelancer.com also has hourly jobs. Of course these are self-explanatory and most likely the kind of work you're already accustomed to.

You are paid a specific rate per hour which will be included in the job description.

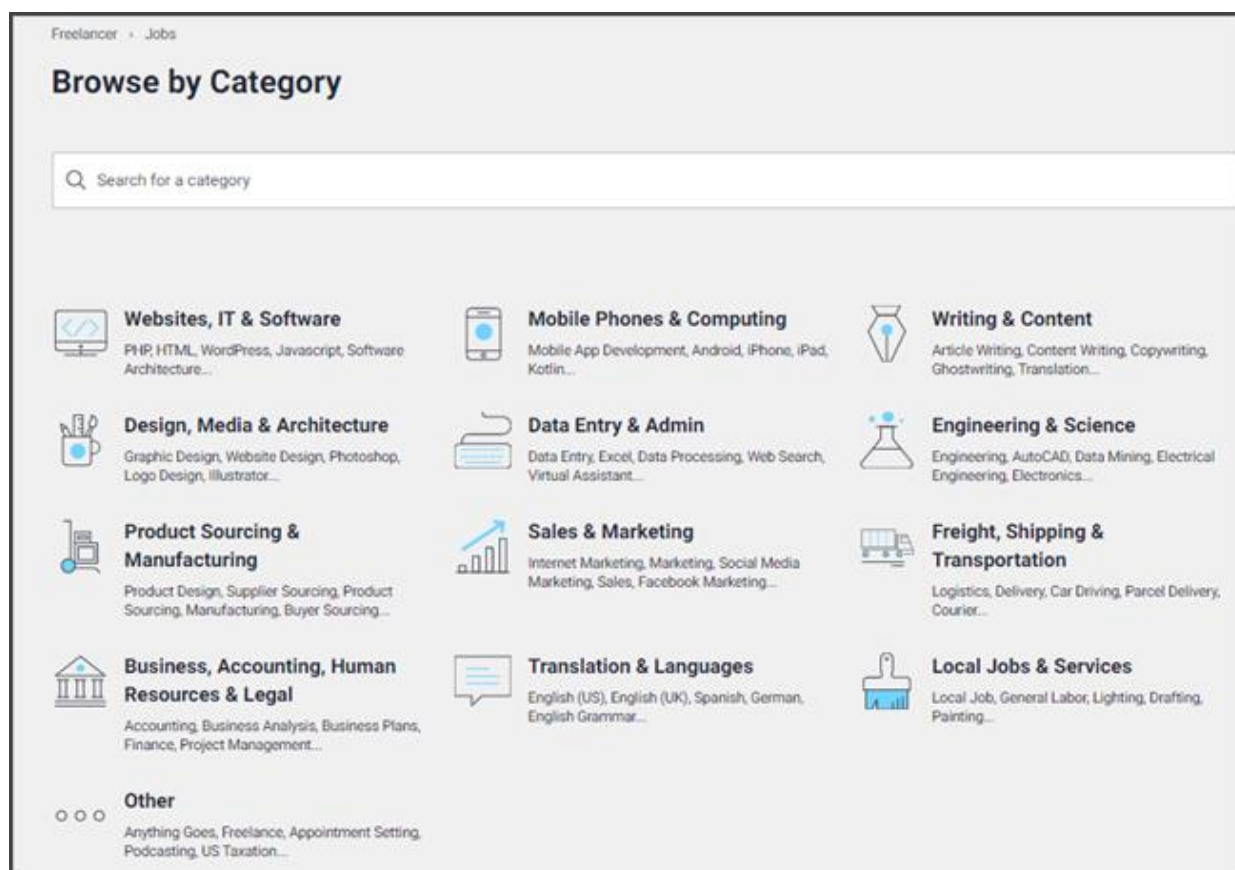

Hourly jobs can be short-term or long-term, and you'll be paid for the number of hours you work on a particular project.

Freelancer.com has a built-in tracking app for monitoring your working hours and it can take screenshots so your client can check on your work (and progress).

Freelancer.com Jobs and Categories

Freelancer.com has a really large marketplace of job categories.

From IT jobs and web designing to writing, SEO, data entry, accounting, and jobs in the law industry, you can find almost every type of job on their platform (those that can be done remotely from home of course).

The complete list is extraordinary actually. I counted 687 sub-categories in the Websites/IT section alone! Altogether there are thousands of categories you can search in to find work you can do from home.

Obviously, the more specific your skill is, the more likely you are to find higher paying jobs with less competition. The broader your skillsets are, the more jobs you'll qualify for. If you have a long list of specific skillsets... even better.

With thousands of potential categories to choose from it's hard to imagine there isn't something for everyone at Freelancer.com. And, with a list this big, it's worth doing your research to acquire new 'in-demand' skills in fields with little competition.

Local Jobs & Services

My guess is that most people interested in Freelancer.com are looking for work they can do from home and submit online.

It should be noted though, that Freelancer.com also has a section for Local Jobs and Services.

The categories here range from appliance repair and car washing to teaching and putting on make up. There are even obscure categories for things like feng shui, mural painting and flashmob.

Yes, you read that right... feng shui and flashmob.

Now, just because there are thousands of categories, that of course doesn't mean every one of them will have a ton of job listings. There's probably not a big demand for feng shui... but you never know. There's a reason they've listed it as a category.

Whatever your skill, knowledge or interest, you can use ALL of it to apply for the multitude of jobs on Freelancer.com.

Freelancer.com Application

Here are the steps you must take when when applying for jobs on Freelancer.com:

1. Browse jobs in the Freelancer.com marketplace – When checking out possible jobs, look at the set of skills required to complete the project (you should have the skills to do the job well). You'll also see the client's budget through the price listed on the job.

Although jobs on Freelancer.com are acquired through bidding, you must be willing to work within the client's budget before sending your proposal. And of course, the turnaround time is also important – because if you know you can't finish the job within the time frame set by the client, the two of you are probably not the best match.

2. Bid for jobs you're interested in – When sending your proposal to a client, it's important to know that you're not merely bidding for the price of the project. You're also competing with other freelancers' skills and pitches.

Therefore, it's always a good idea to understand the job description well and to communicate your proposal well to your client. Remember, you want to get the job, so you would want to convince the client (in a good way) to pick you over the other independent contractors who also want the job.

3. Work well when hired – When you're awarded a project, take note of the turnaround time or deadline set by the client.

It's critical to meet deadlines (not only will this show your client you're reliable, but failing to meet deadlines is a surefire way to make sure you don't get any more work from that client.

With that said, you can always communicate with your client if you need more time and if it's within reason and you've already established a good working relationship, your client will be more likely to grant your request for more time if your reason is acceptable and valid.

But your work must be good and you must have a good attitude. If you do a poor job with a poor attitude, missing a deadline might be the final straw whether your reason is legitimate or not.

Likewise, making a deadline and being on time is not an excuse for shoddy work.

So deadlines, quality work, a good attitude and being able to receive instructions as well as take criticisms are crucial to being a successful freelancer. Go for a 5-star rating not just for your client and for more work. Do it for yourself. Aspire to be great.

As a result, those 5-star ratings will do wonders to your profile. Clients will trust you more (and hire you over others) and your high ratings will snowball into more and more work (at a higher pay rate). Not just at Freelancer.com... but on other platforms as well.

The following video provides further insight and tips on how to be a successful freelancer...

How to Become a Preferred Freelancer on Freelancer.com

Freelancer.com also has a Preferred Freelancer program you can apply for which comes with a lot of perks. To find out if you're eligible, go to your Profile page and check on your scores and notifications.

You'll see in your profile if you meet their requirements – and if you do, you can simply contact support and apply for the program.

Even if it's not required to become a Preferred Freelancer to apply for jobs in the Freelancer.com marketplace, there are a lot of reasons why you might want to be one...

1. They'll give you a badge to make you stand out from other freelancers on the site. This lets clients know you're a preferred (some might say elite) member of Freelancer.com (and therefore more skilled than regular freelancers).

This of course will increase your chances of getting hired for the jobs you apply to.

2. When you're part of their Preferred Freelancer program, you'll get daily invitations (job opportunities) from their Recruitment team. Top employers on the platform are handled by Freelancer.com's Recruitment team – so that means you'll get access to high-paying projects.

According to their site, Preferred Freelancer members get 50% of the higher-paying jobs (those worth $2000 and more).

3. When you accept jobs in the Preferred Freelancer program, you'll only need to pay for fees once payments are released to you by the client (not upon acceptance, as with regular jobs on the platform).

However, note that Freelancer.com usually charges 10% fees – but they will charge 15% fees for jobs completed by Preferred Freelancer members.

4. When you become a Preferred Freelancer, you can bid on up to a hundred projects per day. I really don't know why it's necessary to send 100 applications every day, but at least you'll have the option.

What I Like About Freelancer.com

- Freelancer.com offers a lot of legit work at home opportunities.
- Their 10% fee is quite reasonable (it's the standard in the industry).
- They have a free membership option that you can use.
- They include 8 bids in their free membership plan.
- The Freelancer.com platform setup includes an app that freelancers and clients can use to send messages, chat, upload, and share files.
- They have good customer service.

What I Don't Like

- I found a lot of scam accusations on Freelancer.com – and there seem to be scammer clients and scammer freelancers alike.
- A lot of scam issues could be (but might not be) a reflection of a poor security screening and verification process. Again... the caveat here is that all platforms including the social media giants as well as banks, email providers, phone companies and even law enforcement are all struggling to deal with scammers.
- You need to pay fees when you're awarded a project (even when you're not even paid yet).
- Their verification process might require you to reveal some very sensitive information.
- Bids are limited when you're on their free membership plan (only 8 per month)... but as I stated above, having at least 8 bids for free is something I like. That doesn't mean I don't want more
- They can refuse you service or ban your account without any explanation.

Payments are not released automatically, but are simply locked in the client's account.

There can be delays in withdrawals (up to 15 days!).

There's a withdrawal threshold of $30 (zero would have been better, especially for newbies).

You can only use their Rewards points if you have a paid membership plan.

Freelancer vs Upwork: Which is the Best in this year?

I believe this comparison between Freelancer vs Upwork will give you a clear idea of which one of them is one step ahead. Both Upwork and Freelancer have a great value on the web and a lot of freelancers and outsourcing managers are working here for more than 10 years.

Let's see the comparative analysis of Upwork vs Freelancer. Then make your mind where to go and build your online career.

Freelancer

Freelancer is a great site for freelancing and outsourcing. Here, you'll need to sign up for your account and fill out your details to complete it 100%. The next step is to submit a proposal for jobs. The higher your bid, the more you can apply. On average, you can get your first job in a month or submit 30-50 proposals with a good cover letter. So, if you get a project from a client right now, you are fine. On the other hand, you can try to get a friend's help even after trying for a month.

At this point, friends, you need to ask to hire you for a project and give you a good rating, it reflects your portfolio and you can easily get your next job. You will find multiple tasks to strengthen your portfolio. The average application ratio for each project is 20-80 or sometimes even 50.

Upwork

Upwork is a very popular and number one freelancing site. The job opportunities are very good. The average application ratio for each project is 5 - 40, so the chance of winning a job is great. Upwork has great results when it comes to earning and pricing a job.

Creating an account is a challenge for newcomers if they are outside the United States of America. I mean they are not accepting every new freelancer by completing the signup form, they will review and get a 24-hour answer.

On the other hand, if you can create an Upwork account, you can work with a freelancer/client and get results very soon. I hope you decided to go with it.

Freelancer vs Upwork - REAL Comparison

Upwork does not charge for every job taken as a freelancer, they charge after the project is completed. I tried Freelancer, I hated it. I tried Upwork and I love it. Instead of charging you upfront and back fees, Upwork will essentially deduct 5% - 20% of your total revenue for their project when a client pays you through your Upwork account.

It's not as bad as it sounds. If you know you want to earn a certain amount, consider 10% before you bid or set an hour. However, keep in mind that if you are new to freelancing, and especially if you do not have formal education or backup skills, you may have a harder time finding work if you set your rates too high.

In most cases, freelancing, if not all, websites like Upwork involve competing with other freelancers on a global platform. Some of these freelancers can make a living, which I consider to be very low wages, but because of this, their economy may be different from your own. I am not suggesting you print your own, but this is something to consider. Also, when you get overwhelmed by the high ratings from your clients, you can gradually increase your rate to something more appropriate.

When looking for work at Upwork, keep in mind that nothing is instant. Of course, you're probably lucky and get a project right now, but if you don't, don't give up. When I started, my first gig at Upwork took 2 weeks to land. I bid on multiple projects daily for the first two weeks. That said, if you want to be a freelancer, don't give up.

There are many freelancing opportunities. All you have to do is look for them and be patient. Once you get started, assume that each time you make 110% of your effort, tasks do not take too long for you to flow.

Compare Upwork vs Freelancer; which are the hardest to pick?

Upwork - History and Popularity

Upwork was first known as Alliance-oDesk. It is a global freelancing platform where millions of freelancers and contractors work remotely. Its current headquarters are in Mountain View, California, the USA. The founding members are Stratis Karamanlakis and Odysseus Sattalos.

Alliance-Odesk was renewed in 2015 as Upwork. Stephen Casriel has since served as CEO.

An Upwork claim clearly states that they now have at least 9 million registered freelancers and 4 million registered clients on the market. Upwork, you can get 3 million job postings worth $1 billion a year. However, they believe that this number will double or triple in comparison to its current figures due to their simple and credible marketing policies.

Freelancer - History, and Popularity

Freelancer is another freelancing platform that works almost like Upwork. Freelancer's headquarters for 20 years or more are located on George Street, Sydney, Australia. More branches of Freelancer.com offices are located in Southern California, Vancouver, London, Buenos Aires, Manila, and Jakarta.

Its founder and CEO is a guy named Matt Barry. But when it comes to freelancers, they claim that the platform is now working regularly with about 15 million registered members who have posted more than 7.4 million projects. Spending on cash projects? 2.2 billion per year.

Overall, it's hard to choose a winner in this battle. In my mind, Upwork wins a bit - and only because I think they are more motivated by ID verification, as I know from my own experience. However, a freelancer is not the only available alternative for Upwork. There are many better options. See your project before trusting anyone.

Standard, Reliability & Securities

| Subject          | Upwork                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Freelancer                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Profile Standard | Upwork is better in terms of standard and reliability. Creating a profile in Upwork can be a daunting task, even in my freelancing phase. Only outstanding profiles ensure that they review the platform and the majority of profiles include more capabilities. | Freelancer - Low quality , but probably more opportunity due to short and medium-sized deals. If you are just getting started, this may be the right option, but you need to be efficient and cheap at the same time. |
| Security         | Upwork has a great dispute system. But in most cases Upwork partially supports the Clients and workers get victimized.                                                                                                                                           | Freelancer has also a fine dispute system. You will find more scammer on this site and more disputes.                                                                                                                        |
| Usability        | Upwork has a cleaner user interface and generally has less loading and processing time than freelancers.                                                                                                                                                         | For the uninterrupted viewer, the freelancer interface can see an additional burden with the elements: all the filters, checkboxes, and widgets in its dashboard can sometimes be discouraged.                               |
| Transparency     | Upwork has more transparency than Freelancer. Everything is well organized.                                                                                                                                                                                      | Freelancer is not well organized and a new worker will face a lot of problems at the beginning.                                                                                                                              |

The wise option would be to find and fix 5-6 top platforms; Local and global [does not mean old gold; Many new platforms are using top technology and AI to connect 'professionals with professionals'; Have you noticed 'corporate with professionals' 'professionals with corporations'?]

Another good option is to join some companies on a salary basis, such as short-term 3-6 month engagements. In this short time, you can work with many companies, meet lots of people, learn a lot of technology and get handsome money for gig staff.

If you have freelancing, remote projects, and 10-15 years of experience, you can start as a corporate trainer. You must be wondering where to go and what are the different platforms that provide all these solutions in a single point.

Upwork vs Freelancer (Which one is Worth)

Generally, both Upwork and Freelancer are worth your time and effort. Even though the competition is strong, you probably have to fight every order with thousands of freelancers around the world. As a client, you need to spend some time looking for qualified and reliable freelancers. As a contractor, you are at risk of facing a dishonest customer who is unwilling to pay for your service.

In short, Upwork is the best if you are a professional and know how to treat good clients. It has the feel of the corporate world.

I tried Freelancer but never worked on it. I think it's overblown and chaotic. The most annoying part is that they want to pay $5 per pay in the exams which all end up in the up so I felt that the freelancer would just have to make some money and not consider it for freelancers working on it.

What is Keywords in SEO Ranking (Quick Explanation)

What is Keywords/Site Ranking?

Everyone wants to rank their sites in search engines. So the first question is “rank for which keywords”. That means you have to rank your site for some certain keyword/keywords or phrases. And when people will search for those certain keywords, they will find your site. That is called the site ranking.

Let's see and example:

If you search by “American health consultants” you will find “www.ahcmedia.com” in the first page. That means the site “www.ahcmedia.com” is ranked for the keyword “American health consultants

Let's see another example:

Suppose our main two keywords are “Massage Motu” and “Spa Massage Therapy” and our site address is www.massagemotu.com

We want that when people search by “Massage Motu” or “Spa Massage Therapy” each time our site will be shown in the first page of search result.

Now please search by this keyword “Spa Massage Therapy” in google. You will not find our site in the first page, but we want that when people search by “Spa Massage Therapy” our site will be visible in the first page, so that we can get a large number of permanent organic traffic from search engines.

How much keywords will you choose?

Like this one should have only 3 to 5 major keywords for their site. And they should work for these keywords and gradually rank one by one. SEO is a gradual process. It may take times to be ranked.

How to choose perfect keywords for your site?

First, please consider the main theme of your site. Then consider the Mission, Aim, Services, Area, Business Category, Target, Structure, Future Plan, Business Plan, Economical Condition etc. Then choose or create 8 to 10 keywords in your mind. Then do a lot of research on it by yourself or with a help of a Freelancer. Finally find out 3 to 5 major keywords for your site/business.

How difficult is choosing keywords?

Keywords choosing are the most critical task in the present time. If one can choose the perfect keywords/niche, 70% of his success will be done. If one fails to choose the perfect keywords; his success will take a huge amount of time and extra work. Keyword Research and Market Research are one of the highly talented works in the online marketplace.

What is Keyword Research and Market Research?

One may think that choosing a niche and keyword is a very easy task. But no, it is not an easy task at all. There are many things in here. Market Competition, Traffics, Searches, Traffic Sources, Traffic Quality, Competitors, Demand, CPC, CPA, Bidding, Future Existing, Ups and Downs, Areas, Currency etc have to be considered in keyword researching.

Importance of SEO in Internet Marketing

Internet is the best marketplace to generate sells and traffics. If one can find out the proper sources of traffic and if one can do proper marketing there, he must be able to success in his business. There are so many methods of internet marketing. Among them SEM (Search Engine Marketing) is the best source of permanent online marketing.

Everyday millions of people search in the search engines (google, yahoo, being) for their desired contents. Different people have different wishes. And people search in the search engines by their desired keywords. And they can see 10 results each page and they take one of them and fulfill their desire. For this reason all organizations always try to be in the first page of google search. Search engines generated traffics are called organic and permanent traffic because 65% of these traffics generally do shopping from their searches. So search engine optimization and search engine marketing is the best way to generate traffics and sells.

Hope I can make you understand about keyword ideas and the importance of Internet Marketing, Search Engine Optimization, Keyword Research and Search Engine Marketing.
